By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

JAPANESE envoys, quiet, suave, knowing and obeying the Japanese national will, visited Washington on their way to the London naval conference.

They would be charmed to abandon for several years the building of "capital ships." They know that such ships are only targets for airplanes and submarines, as expensive as they are useless.

They insist on fast cruisers, however, for those can be used to annoy commercial ships.

And they won't even discuss abandoning submarines or airplanes, both of which they are building vigorously. Wise, practical Japanese.

The British motto is "Business First." No past disappointment or prejudice of today must interfere.

The Prince of Wales, amid a brilliant company in St. James' Palace, yesterday, received the ambassador from Russia to Great Britain, saying pleasant things about the glory of the Russian people, etc.

King George did not receive the Russian for two reasons. The Russian government killed the Czar, who was the King's cousin. And the King, official head of the established Church of England, doesn't like Russia's effort to make religion ridiculous, calling it "the opium of the people."

However, the prince did the receiving well, the ambassador is satisfied, and the British will do business with Russia.

Bootleggers and rum runners are familiar features of our prohibition landscape.

But quite new are the hijackers that yesterday raided a Government warehouse, tying up the watchman, tearing down a brick wall, driving away with $250,000 worth of Uncle Sam's so-called "medicinal" whiskey.

F. A. Mitchell-Hedges, British explorer back from Panama, says the interesting Chucunaques, survivors of a great Indian nation, will soon vanish.

Spaniards long ago landed among them, robbing, killing, and since then they have excluded white people.

The Bishop, pretending to be a god, lighting fires around his tent at night, going through an elaborate meaningless religious ritual, impressed them. They tolerated him.

Their worst diseases are ignorance and superstition, the diseases that have killed off many races and nations, allowing others less ignorant and superstitious to take their places.

Mexico still does things in the old hospitable Spanish way.

Gen. Plutarco Calles, Mexican fighting general, returning to his ranch near Mexico City, will find thousands of peons, his Mexican laborers, lining the road on both sides.

Later he will invite 5000 of them to lunch with him.

In this country big industrialists sometimes get Billy Sunday to come and pray with workers, sometimes give workers a chance to buy stock in the company, and sometimes lock them out to settle a strike. It never occurred to anybody here to invite 5000 to lunch at one time.

Twelve million five hundred thousand in good American gold went to France on the Olympic, and those that lost in the Wall Street earthquake sold stocks to "take losses" and get credit on income tax reports.

However, a new year is coming.

Income tax selling will stop on December 31.

The President and others that should know are cheerful about prospects. The employment situation is not encouraging, but it is reasonable to suppose that we are at the bottom of the hill, about to start up again.

WEATHER

High tide today 2:49 a. m., 3:05 p. m.

Sun rises 7:10, sets 4:15.

Light all vehicles tonight at 4:45. Details on Page 8.

BIG SHAKEUP OF FIREMEN

RAILWAYS IN N.E. SPLIT BY MERGER

B. & M., New Haven and the B. & A. Put in Separate Systems by I. C. C.

Washington, Dec. 21—A plan for merging practically all of the steam railroads of the United States into 19 giant operating units, was laid down by the Interstate Commerce Commission today in compliance with a congressional mandate.

Five eastern trunk lines would be formed, headed by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Wabash-Seaboard, New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio.

In the South there would be three systems, headed by the Atlantic Coast Line, the Southern Railway and the Illinois Central.

Other key systems under the plan were as follows: The Great Northern-Northern Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific; the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; the Union Pacific; the Southern Pacific; the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; the Missouri Pacific and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, and Chicago & Northwestern.

WOULD OPEN TERMINALS

Two Canadian groupings also were allowed, but were not included in the list of trunk systems.

Many long established relationships between existing carrier systems would be disrupted by the carrying out of the proposal, but the commission said that it represented the attempt to create a transportation system in the country which would maintain competition and give every important traffic center recourse to two or more lines for transport service.

Without specifying the actual local treatment necessary, the commission declared that any railroad consolidation "should be accompanied by unification of all terminal lines in the respective territories, so that all terminal properties should be thrown open to all users on "fair and equal terms," regardless of terminal ownership.

A long study and much controversy within the commission and in the railroad field preceded the announcement. Since 1920, when Congress authorized general railroad consolidation on a basis of maintaining competition and further maintaining existing routes and channels of commerce, the commission was repeatedly asked to be relieved of its mandate ordering it to prepare a plan, but without result.

Commissioner Eastman in a concurring opinion to the document today declared that "the plan is very little more than a procedural step."

EDDIE CANTOR Rises to Say:

WITH a little snooping and the connivance of Santa Claus I have discovered what certain prominent Americans would like for Christmas. Here is the list:

PRESIDENT HOOVER—Old-fashioned Republican prosperity.

HARRY RICHMAN—Ditto.

ALFRED E. SMITH—Another crack at it.

RUDY VALLEE—Max Steuer.

SENATOR HEFLIN—A new party.

CALVIN COOLIDGE—A new automobile.

CHIC SALES—Another "specialist."

JOHN and FLORENCE COOLIDGE—A salary raise.

AL JOLSON—Another "Singing Fool."

EDSEL FORD—A new yacht with a new captain.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD—American beauties.

HUNT YOUTH, 20 ADRIFT AT SEA IN SKIFF

Manomet Hunter's Craft Is Sought by the Coast Guard Boats

Seven coast guard boats from East Boston base are searching Massachusetts Bay today for James Savi, 20, of Manomet, who was blown out to sea in a small skiff from Imbian Point, four miles below Manomet, at 2:30 p. m. yesterday.

An all night search by the same number of boats failed to locate the youth, who drifted helplessly after losing an oar. A 20-mile southwest wind, blowing at the time, would carry him toward Provincetown, in the opinion of the officers at Manomet Point coast guard station, who are participating in the search.

According to the officers at the Manomet Point station, young Savi shot some wildfowl from shore and then went out in the skiff to fetch them up. In doing so he lost an oar and was at the mercy of the stiff wind.

2 MILLION W. U. BUILDING HERE

Work is to start at once for the erection of a new 19-story office building at Congress and High sts by the Western Union Telegraph Co.

This building will cost about $2,000,000 and will be the second largest telegraph building in the country, C. A. Crane, New England superintendent, today said.

Final details of the purchase of land and buildings were completed yesterday by Henderson & Ross, but exact contracting plans have not been adopted.

While the architects are drawing up their plans, work of razing the present building will be started immediately.

The acquired property is at Nos. 228-230 Congress st., 224 Congress st., 218-222 Congress st., corner of and numbered 105-113 High st., and 115-117 High st.

This land comprises nearly 14,000 square feet. Many of the tenants in the building is a school furniture manufacturing concern.

The company's largest office, which is in New York, is 24 stories high and cost $14,000,000. It has a floor space of 4,000,000 or about three times that of the proposed Boston building.

German War Captain to Be U. S. Minister

Wichita, Kan., Dec. 21 (AP)—Oscar J. P. Wetzlo, a captain on the German general staff during the war, will be ordained tomorrow at St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, the rector of which is the Rev. Otis F. Gray, who was a captain in the A. E. F.

Link "Holdup Party" to Rothstein Case

New York, Dec. 21 (INS)—The name of Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler, was linked today with the pending investigation into the new famous "holdup party" for Magistrate Albert Vitale. A folder from the files of Rothstein made a sensational and unexpected appearance in the plans for the probe.

The folder was labelled "The Honorable Albert Vitale." Its existence was disclosed when U. S. Atty. Charles H. Tuttle announced he had received copies of it to the New York Bar association, which will make a sweeping investigation.

All Spain Playing $2,000,000 Lottery

Madrid, Dec. 21—The attention of 20,000,000 eager souls will be concentrated today on the result of Spain's famous Christmas lottery, the first prize of which is $2,000,000.

The wheel of fortune will decide tomorrow how the total sum of $60,000,000 will be distributed.

Mary McCormic Returns Mdvani Auto

New York, Dec. 21—Now that Prince Serge Mdvani has made up with Pola Negri, Mary McCormic wants nothing more to do with his auto. She says she has shipped it back to him in Paris. It is an expensive thing of English make, "I had only borrowed it, you see," she explained.

FOUR SAVED AT BROOKLINE FIRE

Four children were saved and a sick woman fled scantily clad when fire broke out today in the second floor apartment of Isadore R. Schwartz at 143 Sutherland rd., Brookline.

Calling the maid from the kitchen, Mrs. Schwartz got out of bed and ran to the living room, where she found the sofa in flames. The two women tried to smother the flames with a rug and mattress, but the fire got away from them and the department was summoned.

The fire spread so rapidly that Mrs. Schwartz, wearing a fur coat over her night clothing was forced to vacate the apartment, the children being taken out by the maid. They were cared for by neighbors.

When fire fighting apparatus arrived flames were shooting from the windows of the apartment, which occupies the entire second floor. The blaze was confined to the living room, dining room and kitchen.

The children are Thelma and Robbe, 13-month twins; Allen, five, and Kenneth, three. The first floor of the house is occupied by James A. Stowell and the third by Alexander Mansfield.

Battle Flames in Mattapan Block

Members of the squad saw flames coming out of the basement of the building, occupied by Ben Pinestein and also by the Wales Drug Company.

Firemen fought the fire for an hour before it was under control. The damage is estimated by police at $2500. The cause was not determined.

80 in Peril as Aid Reaches Sinking Ship

Leaking badly and barely able to keep afloat, the freighter Santa Ana of Seattle, with 80 men aboard, was believed saved from disaster today off the Isle of Pines, south of Cuba.

In response to an SOS, the steamer Ethel Chief, one of three rescue vessels speeding to the aid of the stricken Santa Anna, reached the side of the disabled craft, prepared to tow her to port.

A message relayed to the Tropical Radio Co. in Boston said the Ethel Cliff was going to shoot a line across the Santa Ana's bow, with which a hawser could be pulled aboard.

The nearest port would be Port Cayman, Cuba, it was believed.

The United Fruit steamer Tolos, which was some 200 miles from the scene when the S O S was picked up, advised she had answered her own course after learning of the Ethel Chief's arrival.

The first message from the Santa Ana said the rudder was gone and the craft was laboring in the trough of the sea, taking in water. A second message stated she was heading north and leaking badly. This was followed by a third in which the master of the freighter said she was barely afloat. A short time later the Ethel Chief hove in sight.

Hoover Sends Xmas Message to Ill Vets

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—President Hoover today sent a Christmas message to all the veterans of the World War who are ill in hospitals throughout the country. Addressed to all disabled ex-service men and women, the message said:

"I send you cordial Christmas greeting and my best wishes for your happiness in the new year, and I depray for your restoration to health. Your country has not forgotten you and will not forget. The nation's pride in your valor and devotion and its gratitude for the service you have rendered are manifest in its continued concern for your welfare and in its warm sympathy and regard for you."

Mrs. Roger Sullivan Estate $1,100,000

Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP)—Helen M. Sullivan, widow of Roger Sullivan, Democratic leader, left an estate of $1,100,000, it has been revealed in probation of her will. She died December 5.

Her four children get $157,100 each. A like sum is distributed among various charities. The residue becomes a trust fund, the income to be divided among the children and two grandchildren. Two sons-in-law are named trustees.

BYRD IS MADE REAR ADMIRAL

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP). The House today passed the Senate bill to promote Commander Richard E. Byrd to the rank of rear admiral on the retired list in recognition of his Antarctic explorations.

The measure now goes to the President.

Two Train Crews Are Pinned Under Wreck

Peoria, Dec. 21 (AP). Two Toledo, Peoria & Western freight trains crashed head-on near the station at Forrest, western Peoria and the Indiana State line, today. Crews of both trains were pinned beneath them and a rescue corps is fighting its way through the snowdrifts from Peoria with acetelene torches to free them.

Hollis is president of the Concord Electric Company, and also has utilities and insurance interests. He is president of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests.

Voice From Grave in Plea to Goodfellows

The GOODFELLOW EDITOR has been confronted with some touching cases, but he had his most pathetic before him today.

A few days ago, in a mean little Roxbury tenement, a worried, discouraged mother sat down and wrote a letter to the GOODFELLOW EDITOR in the name of her 9-year-old son and in behalf also of her 7-year-old daughter.

The mother mailed the letter. Ten hours later she was dead—strangled and beaten by her husband, the accusation reads.

Today the GOODFELLOW EDITOR publishes this letter, written by Mrs. Margaret Joyce of 14 Albert st., Roxbury.

"I hope you will be good to me (the letter is in the name of the boy) for this Xmas as I have no one to get me anything or for my little sister. Her name is Helen Joyce, 7 years old. My name is Myles Joyce, 9 years old. My mother is not feeling well and she expects a newcomer in our family

DENIES POLITICS INVOLVED

Commissioner Hultman, who announced the transfers less than an hour after Mayor Nichols signed promotion papers, was not in his office, but Chief Daniel F. Sennott, acting commissioner, said: "Many of the transfers were made at the request of members who wanted to be nearer their own homes.

"Other transfers were made for the good of the service in an educational way. For instance some of the men were transferred from intown so those in the outer district could familiarize themselves with the high pressure service. This shift permits the intown men to obtain experience with the metropolitan district conditions."

The chief in reply to a question said he knew of no politics that would be responsible for any of the changes. He pointed out that when there are new appointments that there are vacancies to be filled and retirements in order. A newly appointed officer, he added, is automatically transferred to another house.

Prisoner Has Eye to Business Picking Christmas Games

Apropos of the latitude sometimes given to the prisoners at the Charlestown state prison to elect the kind of games to be enjoyed during the Christmas holidays, Deputy Commissioner of Correction Edward Bagley today told this one.

Various suggestions had been made to the warden by a number of the inmates when it came to a colored prisoner's turn to be interrogated.

"What's your choice, Sam?" asked the warden.

"Wall-scaling," was the quick reply.

"Well, I hope Mr. Goodfellow will be good to me and my little sister. Thanking you very much."

These two unfortunate children are now with an aunt, Mrs. Timothy Moriarty of Heath ave., Roxbury, but with her own brood to feed and clothe, Mrs. Moriarty's big heart is larger than her means.

FATHER ILL

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am a girl 13 years old and keep house for my father and three brothers. My mother has been dead nine years. My father has been ill for the past six months and will not be able to work for some time. It has cost so much it seems we are out of luck this year. I need some dresses and a pair of rubbers, and my brother, 14 years old, needs a coat and rubbers.

We would be very thankful for anything you can send.

Cambridge. MARY.

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am a disabled woman and for the last four years a widow and depending on the city. I am living alone and would be very thankful for a Christmas dinner.

Charlestown. MRS. H.

ORPHAN APPEALS

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

Would you kindly send us a little cheer for Christmas. I live with an aunt as my mother has been dead four years. My aunt has seven children and she takes care of my sister and me. She goes out working in the buildings nights and she won't be able to get us any something.

Malden. GERTRUDE.

Dear Goodfellow Editor:

I am writing from a hospital bed and am just beginning to feel better after being here five weeks. Will you help us for Christmas, as my husband was sick before I was with pneumonia. My little girl has been very helpful but today I received news that she is not well and my boy, 11 years old is in need of warm clothing. Please help me to spend Christmas with my family if God will let me go home.

Boston. MRS. G.

Skyline Inn Is Destroyed by Fire

Southwick, Dec. 21 (INS)—Hampered by lack of water, firemen from Westfield watched helplessly today as fire razed the Skyline Inn, a well-known summer resort on the shores of Congamond lake, near here. The resort, which stands at a high elevation, was empty of guests.

The blaze was believed to have been caused by an overheated stove. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Experts Unable to Solve Plane Crash

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—Faced with a mystery baffling as that of a ship's disappearance at sea, the War Department searched today for any clue that might explain the crash of the giant Fokker airplane that carried a member of Congress and four companions to death as they started to Springfield, Mass., for Christmas.

As the inquiry proceeded, a Congressional committee appointed shortly after the accident arranged to attend the funeral services for Representative William Kirk Sayers.

Killed with him were Capt. Harry A. Dinger, a veteran pilot, who had more than 666 hours in the air in tri-motored ships; Stanley B. Lowe, the congressman's secretary; Arthur A. McGill, of Boston, who was associated with the Republican national committee; and Charles (Vladimir) Kuzma, the mechanic.

While the bereaved families prepared for a saddened Christmas, Senator Hiram Bingham, Connecticut, a World War aviator and president of the National Aeronautic Association, made a personal inquiry and called on the nation not to be discouraged over aviation.

"I looked into the disaster very carefully," he said, "and I talked with eyewitnesses and those who had talked with eyewitnesses. It is one of those unaccountable accidents that will happen."

Italy Wars on Foes of "Public Spirit"

Rome, Dec. 21 (INS)—"The present regime in Italy always considers itself in a state of war against the enemies of the national spirit," declares the new charter of the Fascist party, made public today.

"This attitude is taken in order to defend the developments and power of the Italian people," the charter adds.

CHINESE ARE ROUTED BY U. S. SAILORS

American Naval Guard Fires on Force That Attacks River Steamer

Shanghai, Dec. 21 (AP)—An American naval guard on the steamer Iping of the American Yangtze Rapids Steamship Company, routed a body of unidentified Chinese troops with heavy machine gun fire after the ship had been subjected to rifle fire.

The Chinese on the steamer, which plies the Yangtze river, was so heavy that the guard departed from the usual practice of ignoring such attacks and retaliated vigorously.

Japs Protest on Killing of Woman in Manchuria

Tokyo, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Japanese ambassador to Moscow today called to the attention of the Soviet government that a Japanese woman had been killed and a South Manchurian railway official wounded in recent bombardment of Manchuli, Western Manchuria.

The Soviet government indicates its willingness to make compensation if it was proved the Russian forces were responsible.

The Soviet government notified the Japanese embassy in Moscow of their disapproval of the visit of the international train to Western Manchuria. Representatives of the American, French, British and Japanese consulates are aboard.

Meanwhile the train remains at Pelsze, where it was held up early this week by Chinese officers who refused to let it enter further the area of fighting.

The consular representatives wished to ascertain safety of Nationals in the war area.

Five Senators Will Honor Rep. Kaynor

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Senate today adopted a resolution expressing "profound sorrow" over the tragic death of Rep. Kaynor, of Massachusetts, and providing for the appointment of five Senators to attend the funeral with members of the House.

The resolution was offered by Sen. Walsh of Mass.

The five Senators named to attend the funeral were.

ARREST PLAYS HAVOC WITH WEDDING

Youth Held in $1000 on a Charge of Passing Checks; Taken as He Seeks License

Paul Lyons, 23, of Linwood st., Roxbury, arrested on the eve of his marriage to Miss Betty Coolidge, 19, of Elizabeth ave., Brighton, in Municipal Court today pleaded guilty to passing worthless checks.

Although Special Officer Herbert Dwyer said the young man's stepfather was well-to-do and able to make restitution, Judge Carr held Lyons in $1000 for disposition Dec. 30 as there are other warrants against him.

These warrants, charging similar offenses in Lynn, where the defendant is already on probation, and in Roxbury, were sent to Charles st. jail to be served in the event he obtains bail.

Young Lyons choked up in the dock and tears came to his eyes as he pleaded to be released so he could marry Miss Coolidge. He had nothing to say in regard to the other warrants, only that he wanted to get out before Christmas.

Special Officer Dwyer told the court he knew the young man's parents and thought the stepfather probably would make restitution, but Judge Carr said if he released Lyons on low bail he would only be rearrested on the other charges.

Lyons was arrested when he went to City Hall to obtain a marriage license. Police who had read of his films of intentions on Friday, the 13th, were waiting for him.

Lyons said arrangements had been completed for the wedding to take place last night at St. Aidan's Church rectory, Brookline. His bride-to-be, employed as a stenographer, could not be reached today at her home.

Fruit Liner Aground; Crew of 30 Men Safe

New Orleans, Dec. 21 (AP)—Officials of the North American Fruit Line Steamship Co. received word that the S. S. Venator, aground off Puerto, Mexico, said today the boat was in no immediate danger, did not carry passengers and that the crew of 30 was safe.

Some members of the crew went ashore at Puerto in lifeboats and got into communication with the home office in New Orleans by telegraph. The crew was ordered to stay aboard the ship and aid in efforts to float her.

The Venator left New Orleans in ballast on Dec. 17 for Puerto under command of Capt. R. Bed. She has a list of 625 tons, flies the Honduran flag and is in the fruit trade between New Orleans and Central America.

U. S. Navy Supply Barge Adrift Off Watch Hill

Newport, R. I., Dec. 21 (AP)—Reports received her today from the navy tug Chewink said that a barge she was towing was adrift somewhere off Watch Hill. The barge was laden with supplies for the naval torpedo station here and left New London, Ct., last night.

Heavy seas and a strong wind were believed to have caused the tow line to part. No information was available other than that the Chewink was "standing by."

Christian Science in New Association

Articles of incorporation have been signed for the Christian Science Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast by the Christian Science Board of Director of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston. The following trustees have been appointed by the Boston church board: Mrs. Caroline M. Glass, George D. Greenwood and Marvin R. Higgins of San Francisco. These two steps were necessary to obtain a charter from the State of California.

Hilferding Resigns Finance Ministry

Berlin, Dec. 21 (AP)—Finance Minister Hilferding, about whose head has centered much controversy for the last few weeks regarding the government's financial policy, resigned today.

PLANS FOR NEW KIND OF MEXICO REVOLT

Vasconcelos Says Fight to Be More Political Than Military

Los Angeles, Dec. 21 (AP)—Jose Vasconcelos, who was defeated in the Mexican presidential election last month by General Gutiz Rubio, was here today avowedly to establish headquarters for a revolution "more political than military" in Mexico.

The defeated candidate's arrival here a few minutes before midnight last night, was unexpected. He had made reservations at a hotel where he expects to have his political headquarters for Sunday morning, and Mrs. Vasconcelos, who lives here, had anticipated his arrival tomorrow.

It became known after Vasconcelos reached here by automobile from Tuscon, Ariz., however, that his family had urged him to leave the vicinity of the border at once, due to the execution Tuesday near Nogales, Sonora, of Gen. Carlos Bouquet, one of his supporters in the recent presidential campaign.

Vasconcelos left Tucson quietly Thursday night, soon after Gen. Bouquet's death before a firing squad had been announced officially by Jose A. Valenzuela, Mexican federal consul at Nogales, Ariz.

His absence from Tucson was not discovered until some time later and his whereabouts had been unknown until he arrived here.

I. C. C. Rail Plan Fixes 3 Systems for N. E.

He added that "there is nothing compulsory about it nor even any assurance that authority will be sought to carry out the consolidations which it proposes. The important time will come when we take action upon definite applications," to bring about rail consolidation.

In the actual alignment of railroads projected by the plan there was marked difference with some of the proposals made by important railroad interests which have sought to take advantage of the consolidation law.

In Eastern territory the commission plan would leave the New York Central and Pennsylvania systems largely as they now are, but would enlarge materially the Chesapeake & Ohio system by adding to it the Erie and Pere Marquette and a large group of connecting short lines.

The makeup of the proposed systems includes:

System No. 2—New Haven: New York, New Haven & Hartford; New York, Ontario & Western; New York connecting railroad interests: Lehigh & Hudson River; Lehigh & New England; South Manchester; Fore River; Moshassuck Valley; the Narragansett Pier; Wood River Branch, Grafton & Upton.

System No. 3—New York Central system, including: Boston & Albany, Michigan Central, Central, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis; Cincinnati Northern, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, Evansville, Indianapolis & Terre Haute and Virginian, and many smaller lines.

The 19 United States systems are as follows: No. 1, Boston & Maine; No. 2, New Haven; No. 3, New York Central; No. 4, Pennsylvania; No. 5, Baltimore & Ohio; No. 6, Chesapeake & Ohio and Nickel Plate; No. 7, Wabash-Seaboard; No. 8, Atlantic Coast Line; No. 9, Southern; No. 10, Illinois Central; No. 11, Chicago & North Western; No. 12, Great Northern-Northern Pacific; No. 13, Milwaukee; No. 14, Burlington; No. 15, Union Pacific; No. 16, Southern Pacific; No. 17, Santa Fe; No. 18, Missouri Pacific, and No. 19, Rock Island-Frisco.

The Canadian systems: No. 20, Canadian National, and No. 21, Canadian Pacific.

The assignment of roads under these major headings is as follows: Boston & Maine, Delaware & Hudson, Bangor & Aroostook, The Maine Central, The St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain, The Rutland, Montpelier & Wells River, Wilkesbarre connecting railroad (undivided one-half interest), Monson Railroad, Kennebec Central, Knox Railroad, Wiscasset, Waterville & Farmington, Lime Rock, Hoosac Tunnel & Wilmington, Suncook Valley, Berlin Mills, Middlebury & Schoharie, Hardwick & Woodbury, Barre & Chelsea Railroad, Bridgton & Saco, Sandy River & Rangeley Lake, Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn, Troy Union, Mt. Washington, Clarendon & Pittsford (undivided one-half interest), Woodstock (undivided one-half interest) and Lake Champlain & Moriah.

Congress Moves to Put Rail Merger Into Effect

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—Legislation is necessary to put into effect the national railroad consolidation program proposed today by the Interstate Commerce commission in the opinoin of Congressional leaders, and a drive to put it through at the present session of Congress was forecast today by Senator Watson, Indiana, Republican leader.

Senator Watson, a former chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee, said he would favor consideration of legislation as soon as the tariff bill is disposed of.

Dosen't Like His Christmas "Card"

Salem, Dec. 21 (AP)—Action by the Salem police today indicated that the department and Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward F. Flynn, of Lynn would hardly exchange Christmas greetings. Thereby Flynn was summoned to appear in district court on a first day violation of the traffic laws here.

Dec. 18, Patrolman Joseph V. McDonough tagged Flynn's automobile for being parked in a restricted area. Flynn did not report to police headquarters in accordance with law, the authorities said, hence the summons today.

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—The International Paper Sales Company today sent telegrams to all members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association announcing that its present price of newsprint would be continued for the first six months of 1930.

The message also said that there would be no increase in price even after June 30, 1930, unless a 30-day notice were given to the publishers.

WATCH AND WARD DEFIES BUSHNELL IN DRIVE ON "BAD BOOKS"

BOOK SELLER GIVEN JAIL TERM

Harvard Folk Raising Fund to Aid Him; Society Will Not Change Tactics

Despite the warning of Dist. Atty. Bushnell that he will prosecute Watch and Ward agents for conspiracy if they again employ the methods used in securing evidence in the Cambridge "bad book" sale case in Middlesex County, officers of that organization announced today there would be no change in the society's tactics.

At the same time, James A. Delacey, manager of a Cambridge book store, is free on a stay of execution of a sentence of one month in the House of Correction and a fine of $500 which Judge Frederick W. Fosdick imposed after adjudging him guilty of the sale of an objectionable book.

Delacey was convicted and sentenced after the methods employed by Watch and Ward agents who testified against him had been scored by the court, district attorney and defense. All denounced the manner in which the agents had arranged for the sale of the book.

APPEALS TO HIGH COURT

The stay of execution was granted to allow counsel for Delacey to appeal to the Supreme Court on several points of law. So today a drive was being conducted among the faculty and students at Harvard to raise funds to assist Delacey in his appeal.

In connection with the drive for funds at Harvard to aid Delacey, unconfirmed reports were circulated today that $500 had been subscribed. Sponsors of the movement it was said, are Bernard Barnes, president of the Harvard Crimson, Lincoln Kirstein, and Felix Warburg, son of the New York philanthropist.

Joseph Sullivan, a clerk employed by Delacey at the Dunster House Book Shop on South st., Cambridge, was also adjudged guilty of selling a copy of D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterly's Lover," but his case was filed.

"I don't care to see anybody go to jail to satisfy the Watch and Ward Society," said Dist.-Atty. Bushnell, in moving for disposition of the case. He suggested that no sentence be imposed. In his address to the court he referred to "private snooping societies" and "spies."

"I am opposed to censorship by appointed or elected officials, or by those who set themselves up as censors of plays and books," Bushnell said.

"The law under which this complaint was brought is the only censor I recognize. It is sound law. Personally, I'd much prefer to prosecute the author of this book than the booksellers. The author is a filthy degenerate with a sewer brain.

"And I want to say now," he declared as he thumped the table, his voice rising to a shout, "that the agents of this or any other society ever come into this district and procure the commission of a crime which otherwise would not be committed, while I am district attorney, I will proceed against them for criminal conspiracy."

Judge Fosdick in making his finding of guilty in the case declared the Lawrence book as a whole, "indecent and impure and manifestly tends to corrupt the morals of youth," adding that the court found this to be a fact beyond any reasonable doubt.

He found that the defendants did not actively seek a buyer for the volume in question but that the sale was made "wholly upon the importunity of the buyer, whose sole motive was to induce the defendants to make a sale the buyer being convinced that the sale, if made, would institute a crime.

"The court," continued the finding, "entertains no cordiality for such doings but nevertheless rules that such facts are not a defence."

The Rev. Charles S. Bodwell, secretary of the Watch and Ward organization, declared that the comment of Atty.-Gen. Bushnell was "all nonsense."

The secretary stated that most of the work of the society had to deal with the suppression of objectionable magazines which were usually in stock but denied that any "unusual effort" was used to obtain a sale of the book in Cambridge on which the charges were based.

The Rev. Mr. Bodwell stated last on a visit to New York he learned of the Greater Boston dealers who were handling the book. He stated that one other dealer in Greater Boston received copies of the book but declined to state whether or not the Watch and Ward had attempted to procure a sale on the part of this particular dealer. Unless otherwise ordered by the board of directors of the society, he said, it is not there would be no change in the prosecution tactics of the organization.

PAY BALM? NOT RUDY VALLEE!

New York, Dec. 21—It isn't in Rudy Vallee's mind to give $200,000 heart balm to Agnes O'Loughlin, the show girl who says he promised to marry her. Her complaint was filed with the county clerk.

The famous crooner was served with papers in the suit last Wednesday. He engaged Lawyers Kelly & Beckey of 366 Madison ave. yesterday to file a denial.

"We stop talk of settlement out of court before it starts. We'll go to court with Miss O'Loughlin."

Vallee has expressed himself both "surprised and hurt" by the girl's action, insisting they were good friends, but not engaged. He said she herself recently denied rumor of their engagement.

GOW THANKFUL TO POSTAL WORKERS

Postmaster in Christmas Message Says All His Aides Have Been Loyal

Reviewing his 10 months in office as postmaster of the Boston postal district, Col. Charles H. Gow in a Christmas message addressed to employes under his supervision today acknowledged with deep gratitude the whole-hearted assistance they have accorded him.

The message follows:

"As the year draws to a close our minds naturally turn to these thoughts which have to do with our relations, one with another, over the period of our associations.

"In reviewing the last 10 months since I assumed the office of postmaster, I realize as never before how wholly dependent I have been on your loyal support and effort in carrying on the duties and responsibilities of this office. Nothing which may have been accomplished would have been possible without your co-operation. No policy or suggestion which I might have conceived could possibly become effective without your helpful aid.

"I owe to you, therefore, a tribute of appreciation which I gladly render, and I acknowledge with deep gratitude the whole-hearted assistance you have accorded me.

"Let us turn our eyes and minds now to the further problems which still lie before us during the year to come and endeavor to perfect ourselves to meet them with courage, with determination, and with confidence that working shoulder to shoulder with one another there are no tasks which we may not surmount and no difficulties which we will not be able to overcome.

"I wish you, each and all, a well merited season of joy and satisfaction, a merry and enjoyable Christmas and a most happy and prosperous New Year."

Say Owner of 'I'm Alone' Is American

New York, Dec. 21—Daniel Sloggan, an American citizen who is reported to be the real owner of the British schooner I'm Alone, is going down to Louisiana voluntarily to fight the liquor smuggling indictment naming the schooner, which has been returned in federal court in that state.

DIVORCEE WEDS FORT BANKS OFFICER

The wedding in New York yesterday of a Fort Banks army officer and a Winthrop divorcee who kept the news from her mother, became known in Boston today.

Records at the Municipal Chapel in New York reveal that Department Clerk McCormack married Capt. Richard C. Lowry, 31, and Mrs. Gertrude Malone, 32, of Winthrop.

At the fort, officers said the captain left Thursday for a leave of absence until after Christmas. He told a few intimate friends he intended to be married during that leave but was very secretive about when and where.

The girl's mother said that her daughter was away for a few days, but she had not known of the marriage or when the girl would return.

Capt. Lowry, who served overseas as a railroad artillery engineer is signal officer for the fort. He is listed as an artillery officer, and during his four years of duty at the fort has made many friends.

According to the New York records, the captain was divorced from his first wife, Charlotte, in Honolulu recently.

The bride, who is 32, divorced William E. Malone, Jr., of Boston in 1923. She lives with her mother but upon the return the couple will take an apartment in Winthrop.

Capt. and Mrs. Lowry are planning a deferred honeymoon in May, when they will sail for the Philippines, where he will be stationed for several years.

BIG BUSINESS PLEDGES AID TO PEACE

Lamont Bids Jap Delegates Good-by, With Assurance of Naval Cut Support

New York, Dec. 21—Thomas W. Lamont, partner in the House of J. P. Morgan, has pledged support of American financiers and big business men toward the movement for world peace.

He voiced this promise at a farewell luncheon to the Japanese delegates to the London naval disarmament conference at the Plaza Hotel, Lamont said.

"No banker is more abhorrent than that men of affairs are not averse to war because of fancied or fleeting material profits.

"This mission to London arouses the entire business world. Business men cherish the hope of permanent peace and the stability, prosperity and happiness that attend peace. They are ready to support the movement for lesser armaments, that inevitably result in lighter burdens of taxation.

"Nothing President Hoover has done has so profoundly impressed men of affairs as his manifest eagerness for the success of the London conference and to minimize for all time the possibility of war.

"Cynicism, fear, prejudice and ignorance may still linger in the minds of men, but do we not discern in the spirit in which powers are approaching this assembly, a promise of lasting benefit to the whole world?"

R. Wakisaki, chief Japanese delegate and former prime minister, in reply again expressed the willingness of Japan to corroborate with the other nations.

"As far as Japan is concerned, while she shall have to maintain sufficient naval strength for defensive needs, she stands ready to exert her best efforts for the success of this conference," he said.

VALLEE'S $200,000 HEART

Miss O'Loughlin, Ziegfeld showgirl, who was glorified in "Whoopee," in suit against Rudy Vallee, noted radio crooner and saxophone tooter, for $200,000 says he didn't love her in November as he did in June. She charges breach of promise. She was previously reported engaged to Joe Benjamin, a handsome pugilist.

Vallee's crooning which has won him millions of feminine hearts, was just too much for Agnes. Her complaint has six counts in it, and although she denied their engagement some weeks ago, she contends that it was made in June. Vallee says he is "deeply hurt" by the proceedings. The suit has not been filed yet. Papers have been served on the radio idol Rudy admits he knows Miss O'Loughlin.

MILLIONS ASK FOR TAX CUT

Washington, Dec. 21 (INS)—Petitions signed by several millions of people, requesting Congress to differentiate between earned and unearned income in the evolvement of an income tax system, were formally presented on the floor of the House today.

Rep. Bloom (D) New York, made a speech in support of the principle, emphasizing that the Government is taxing the earning power of the country exactly the same ratio that it taxes income from non-earning sources.

"Excessive taxation upon the brains and manual labor of the country must necessarily hold back the development of the country," he said.

Belgians Pray for Queen to Get Well

Brussels, Dec. 21 (INS)—Prayers will be offered in all churches throughout Belgium at Christmas time for the restoration of the health of Queen Elizabeth, in order that she may be well enough to attend the wedding of her daughter, Princess Marie Jose, to Crown Prince Umberto of Italy next month.

Prayers will also be said for Princess Astrid, wife of Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, in whose household an arrival is expected in March or April. Hopes are expressed that the child will be a son.

GIVES CLUE TO HUNTED BANDIT

Indianapolis, Dec. 21 (INS)—Fred Burke, Chicago gunman, for whose capture rewards aggregating $100,000 are being offered, was at the Indiana State House yesterday inquiring about the condition of State road No. 52 to Cincinnati, James Green, information clerk at the Capitol building, claimed today.

Green said he saw a picture of Burke today which he positively identified as that of the man who called on him.

Green's story was corroborated by William Brittick, clerk in the printing board, and L. W. Fell, State House employe. Both said the visitor was the same man pictured as Burke.

AGNES O'LOUGHLIN

BOSTON BECAME "AIRMINDED" IN JIG TIME

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The growth of commercial aviation in Boston is best demonstrated by the fact that 25 privately owned airplanes are being flown from the Boston Municipal Airport today against only one such ship three and a half years ago.

Commercial flying must have expanded to an amazing degree in order that so many residents of Greater Boston could become interested in flying for the sporting value of it alone, to buy their own airplanes.

Three or more years ago, when the airport was just beginning to find itself, Frederick Lothrop Ames, present head of the East Coast Aircraft Corp., owned a Whirlwind engined Travel Air, and used the plane to barge around the country for the fun of it.

Fred was flying his ship for a long time before anyone else came along, and after Lindbergh flashed to Paris in '27, the whole world became air-minded. Then, with students being turned out by the score, the need of airplanes for pleasure flying was felt. Along came a bunch of airplanes that were not too expensive to buy, and not too costly to operate.

Then with the expansion of the flying game into the ranks of the sportsmen there came the present percentage of airplanes owned by individuals and flown by themselves to go cross-country or fly around the airport, building up time.

FOUR ARE KEPT BUSY

An inspection of Boston Airport shows that in Curtiss-Wright's two hangars there are four privately owned airplanes. The first is a D H Moth, owned by Bob Fales, sales manager for Curtiss-Wright in Boston, and used by him for hunting trips to the Cape and for general running around.

Next comes a Waco 10 biplane, powered with an OX-5 motor, owned and flown by Jack Ludreth of Manchester, N. H. Ludreth flies the ship to build up his flying hours so that he will be able to get a transport ticket at a minimum expense.

A Challenger-engined Robin comes next, owned by R. H. Baker head of the R. H. Baker Company, of Cambridge, and used to transport himself and his executives around the country. Then comes a Travel Air, powered with an OXX-6 motor, owned by Bob Foote and Tom Wilson, the latter of Sconset and Martha's Vineyard Skyway, Inc., a hangar shows the largest number of privately owned ships, the number totalling ten. As one enters the door, one sees three D. H. Moths, owned by three prominent lawyers of Boston. They are: L. D. Bright, W. T. Snow and Alec Bright. The medical profession is one behind the lawyers for only two ships are owned by doctors, one Doc. Frank Chase, a Travel Air, OXX-6 powered, owned by Dr. W. F. Eastlake.

OFF IN A BIG WIND

The women start coming into the picture at this point, with Mrs. Mary Bacon, of Brookline, and Mrs. Spearman, powered with a Whirlwind. A similar ship is used by Herbert Fales of Boston, who commutes between Boston and Wilmington, Del., in the ship. Fales took off yesterday morning for Wilmington in the face of a 50-mile an hour head wind.

A Bellanca cabin Pacemaker, owned by William Hamilton, of Belmont, and flown by Lyle "Slim" Halstead, and an Arrow Sport, the property of Arthur Ingalls, Jr., complete the privately owned ships in this hangar.

There are five other ships in the building, owned by boys who use them for commercial operation, although one of them, Charles Bowman's Stearman, is mostly used for Payson's own joyhopping. These five planes, while owned individually, cannot be classed as strictly private ships, so that cuts the airport total down from 29.

Next in line is East Coast Aircraft's building, in which we find seven private ships. The Harvard Flying Club houses its Whirlwind engined Travel Air biplane in this hangar, and Mrs. Joan Fay Shankle keeps her Whirlwind engined Stearman there when she isn't batting around the sky lanes.

OUT OF THE WEATHER

Mel Derr, of "Where you bot the hat" fame, garages his Whirlwind Travel Air biplane under East Canal's roof, and to wind up the Travel Air list, there is Charles Tisdal, whose OXX-6 engined T. A. is kept in out of the weather by East Coast's protective building.

Andrew Ivanoff and Doc Gately keep their Great Lakes sport planes in this building, and Johnnie Polevris, American Eagle, powered with an OX-5 engine, wraps up the list of planes flown for the "fun of it" in this building.

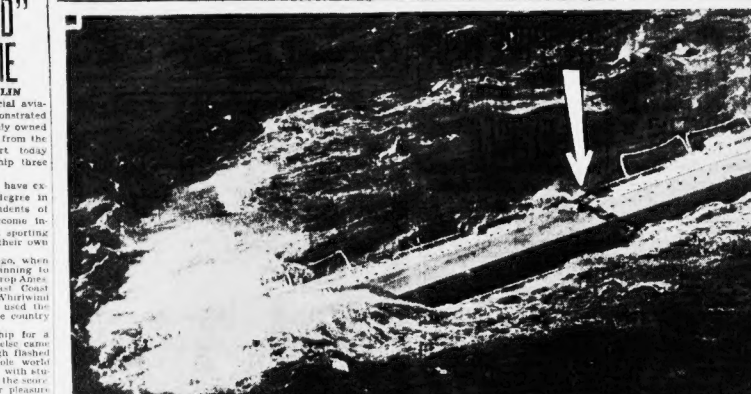
Colonial Air Transport's massive hangar houses four planes. Sebastian Pond, a pilot on the passenger service to New York, keeps his Whirlwind motored Travel Air biplane there when he is not using it to commute to his home in Wellesley Farms. Capt. J. M. Kennedy houses the Great Lakes there, along with A. G. Woodley's Fleet and Ted Kenyon's Arrow Sport.

The total for the airport would be swelled if the Waco Club's Waco 10, Joe Roberts' Kinner engined American Eagle, and Jim Young's Whirlwind engined Travel Air were included, but these three ships are used during the summer months for commercial purposes.

Monday we will compile a list of commercial and military ships on the airport, and we think the grand total of all airplanes using the Boston Municipal Airport will stagger you.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

Air View of Ill-Fated Fort Victoria Sunk in New York Harbor



This air view, taken from just above the almost completely submerged S. S. Fort Victoria of the Furness-Bermuda Line, shows the menace to port navigation which the sunken ship has become. Rammed by the S. S. Algonquin of the Clyde Line in the dense fog which enveloped the harbor Wednesday night, the Fort Victoria sank steadily barely permitting all of its passengers and crew to be rescued before it had churned the water into a seething whirlpool. Arrow shows where Fort Victoria was rammed amidships. (International Newsreel photo.)

Molecules Measured in Flow of Liquid

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—Although a trillion molecules could do the light fantastic on the point of a pin without attracting attention, two professors have announced that they have found a new method of calculating the size of molecules in a liquid.

Professors Eugene C. Bingham, and Logan Darrall of Lafayette College explained to the Society of Rheology here it could be done simply by measuring the rate of flow of a liquid through a glass tube with a fine bore.

They have found in an investigation of 23 octyl alcohols, heretofore assumed to have the same molecular weight, that they differ widely in this respect, which is the cause, they say, of considerable difference in fluidity.

"To study the law of flow" is the purpose of this new member of America's group of scientific societies, which had its organization meeting here with many chemists and physicists in attendance. Of primary interest to the society are the studies of flow in paints, cements, grease, oil and certain "mushy" substances.

L. C. Pritchett, of a nationally known powder company, said he had succeeded in measuring the flow of nitrocellulose and nitroglycerine, which go to make up blasting gelatine and smokeless powder. Nitroglycerine is a liquid but is dangerous by reason of its sensitiveness to mechanical shock.

By introducing nitrocellulose a gel is formed which is far less sensitive.

ALMA RUBENS IS FREED, CURED

Los Angeles, Dec. 21 (AP)—Alma Rubens, once prominent on the stage and motion picture screen, has been released as cured from the state inebriate asylum at Patton, Cal., to which she was committed last June as a narcotic addict.

Relatives refused to disclose her whereabouts. It was learned that she was discharged after prolonged conferences between Early Jens n, director of state institutions; Supt. C. M. Webster of Patton, and Supt. Thomas Joyce of the state hospital at Stockton.

Members of her family indicated she had gone into seclusion at the ranch of her mother, Mrs. Theresa Rubens, near Fresno. Early today, however, Miss Rubens' brother-in-law, Renee Large who makes his home at the ranch, denied she was there.

Miss Rubens was committed to the state institution on a complaint signed by her mother and her husband, Richard Cortez, motion picture actor. Previous attempts to treat her at private institutions failed. She escaped from the Spadra institution, where she once was committed.

Neither the former actress' mother nor her husband, during the time she was detained in Patton, gave up hope that she eventually would recover. A month ago they told of plans for her release and for an ocean voyage to restore her health.

In recent letters to Los Angeles friends Miss Rubens has said:

"I am coming out of the hospital a new Alma Rubens. I shall devote all my time to the work of going back on the stage and screen a better actress."

BEAUTY SEEKS $250,000 BALM

That epitomizes the reasons given by Thelma Irvine, a statuesque brunette beauty, for a suit for $250,000 brought for breach of promise against Joseph F. Gillick, the wealthy bachelor president of the American Type Founders Company.

Miss Irvine is a medical research worker. In the papers filed through MacLean, Krouse and Granger, she asserts that Gillick promised to marry her last August after a courship of eighteen months.

Despite the difference in their ages—She is twenty-one and he in the mid-fifties—Miss Irvine says she believed him sincere.

Came September, came October, came November and in the logical course of the calendar, came December without wedding ring or orange blossoms. On the contrary, the potential bridegroom walked out, according to the expectant bride. Reluctantly then, Miss Irvine appraised Gillick's affections at $250,000 and went to court.

UNITED FRUIT BUYS CUYAMEL

The directors of the United Fruit Company at a special meeting approved purchase of assets of Cuyamel Fruit Company. The purchase price was 300,000 shares of United Fruit stock.

The completion of this purchase, it is expected, will effect considerable economies in production, transportation and distribution.

The Cuyamel Fruit Company has excellent banana plantations in Honduras and through the expenditure of large sums in the last few years has developed a production of 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 stems per annum of quality fruit, which has taxed its selling organization to capacity. At the same time the United Fruit through its aggressive merchandising, selling and advertising has built up a demand for quality fruit in excess of its present supply and could market and distribute to great advantage the increased production which Cuyamel now has.

The acquisition of this present production will take care of the immediate needs of the company which could be supplied at this time from the large acreage of reserve banana lands which it can develop as need may arise in the future.

The quality fruit obtained through this Cuyamel purchase will probably be marketed in the United States as heretofore, thus enabling the United Fruit Company to use its increasing production in other localities to keep the steadily increasing European demand fully supplied as in the past.

Nation's Notables Buy Xmas Dinners

Washington, December 21 (AP)—Basket in hand, or on the liveried arm of the chauffeur conducting them, famous folk of the nation, probably for the last time, are purchasing their Christmas dinners at historic center market.

Since the civil war days noted people have patronized the place and even today former slaves squat along the curb selling their holly and mistletoe wreaths.

Soon the market will be torn down to make way for improvements that are part of the city plan. Notables of the nation, whose daily presence for years among the stalls filled with fruits and vegetables has made the market unique, will crowd the aisles next Tuesday.

Mrs. M. L. Ellis, maker of fruit cakes which Presidents' wives have purchased, is ready for her distinguished customers. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Edward E. Gann always come personally to buy their holiday cake, as did Mrs. Coolidge each Christmas she was in the White House.

HELEN TO WED IN ENSEMBLE

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 21 (AP)—Helen Wills, queen of tennis, will wear a brown ensemble, not a wedding gown, when she becomes the bride of Frederick S. Moody, Jr., San Francisco broker, here Monday.

Announcement of the wedding details disclosed that Miss Wills' costume would be of Parisian design, with felt hat and accessories to match. All the garments were purchased abroad. It was also announced that Miss Wills would wear no flowers.

In addition to the bride and bridegroom and the minister, the Rev. Lindley H. Miller, the only persons who will be in St. Clement's Protestant Episcopal chapel when the ceremony is performed will be the parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Wills of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Moody of San Francisco, and the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Corbitt Moody of Burlingame, Cal.

Worcester Woman Seeks Daughter Here

A widowed mother from Worcester is in Boston endeavoring to find her daughter, who left home just before Thanksgiving. Mrs. May Wilson, who has a rooming house in Parish st., Worcester, has learned that her child was in this city only a week ago. Third Plane Off to Seek Eielson

Nome, Alaska, Dec. 21 (AP) — Pilot Ed Young took off from Teller, Alaska, today for Siberia, following the lead of pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gilman in search of Pilots Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, missing since Nov. 9.

The pilots intend to establish a base of operations in Siberia which to allow more fuel for scouting over the Siberian ranges where Eielson and Borland are believed to have been forced down while they attempted to fly to Nanuk, a fur trading ship locked in ice.

$26,000,000 U. S. Gold Arrives in London

London, Dec. 21 (AP) Money market anticipations of a gold movement from the United States to London materializes today when the Bank of England announced the purchase of £5,873,000 (approximately $26,000,000) bar gold.

This came from New York on the Berengaria and constitutes the first consignment of gold from New York in many months. It was a record trip for the Bank of England for any single day this year.

Free Broker on Bail Over Christmas

700 ARE SAVED WHEN FERRY IS RAMMED

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—Harbor craft rescued 700 Christmas shoppers, commuters and newly arrived immigrants from the ferryboat West Point after it had been rammed and disabled by a car float. Three persons suffered minor injuries.

The ferryboat was crossing from the foot of West 42d st., Manhattan, to Weehawken, N. J., directly across the river. The weather was clear and visibility good. The ferryboat was brilliantly lighted.

A tug lashed alongside the car float, forced its prow into the port side of the ferry, tearing a hole through which water poured into the engine room. The towing tug held the prow of the car float in the gash in the side of the West Point, reducing the flow of water and preventing the ferryboat from listing.

The large electric ferryboat Grenville Kane took 350 over the stern of the West Point. A New York Central tug made fast and its crew helped men and women through the shattered windows of the disabled boat to safety.

WILKINS FLIES AGAIN OVER ANTARCTIC

On Board the William Scoresby, Near Adelaide Island, Antarctica, Dec. 21 (via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station.) Head heights of Graham Land once more spanned by flying machines. Twice last year with Eielson we crossed high plateau and this time, with Cheeseman piloting, flew the Lockheed Vega as a seaplane over the black-faced steep cliffs of the western shore and over the 9000-foot plateau to Weddell Sea.

After weeks of setbacks and disappointments, during which we were tied to the ground, today we flew for three hours at 10,500 feet and verified our dead reckoning on last year's flight.

Today's floods to 2000 feet covered Weddell Sea but its high western edge was distinguishable. We took off from the southern end of Neuder's Bay, then south along the coast to Beascoches Bay; then over Graham Land to Rothschild Valley, returning northward over Graham Land heights to a safety landing at Fl. Lockley.

Best of all was the sight of flat ice in Beascoches Bay which we expect to reach with the William Scoresby plane, now being lifted aboard. If weather holds good, we will proceed to the ice edge, hoping soon to take off for the long flight.

RADIO VIA LONDON

S. S. Discovery, Dec. 17—(Delayed)—For two days last week the good ship Discovery was caught in the Antarctic ice pack, and we had our first taste of real trials in our South Polar expedition.

We were caught in the ice from Tuesday until the 15th. On the 14th, following a heavy snow fall, and opportunity was taken to free the ship from the encumbering hold of the ice. But for 24 hours more we remained in the pack's embrace.

On the 15th, the weather cleared by the afternoon, when we made a determined and successful effort to escape to the big lead to the north in the ice where the continental shelf thinks into the Antarctic waters) two miles in the distance.

We reached a latitude of 65.75 degrees south, and the pack was impenetrable. On the 16th, we retreated north and west along the leads with the aid of the sunshine reflitating from varied surfaces of ice rafts and bergs, which offered interesting photographers unexcelled opportunities.

We passed tabular bergs that were 90 feet in height, some of them more than four miles long.

Today we hit bad weather again, with snow and fog limiting our visibility. We are groping west and north for openings in the pack, intending to work south again at the first opportunity.

TUNNEY WON'T DROP OWN SUIT

Bridgeport, Ct., Dec. 21 (AP)—This bustling city today seemed destined to lose the most interesting legal proceedings filed in its superior court in years.

To take the word of Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty's counsel, Frank L. Wilder, she has decided to drop her $500,000 breach of promise suit against Lieut. J. (Gene) Tunney, he who made a million in the business of boxing and renounced his throne as king of the heavyweights.

Wilder announced yesterday, after he had been granted permission to quit the case as her representative that the attractive divorcee of Fort Worth, Texas, and New York City, had dispatched a brief letter to him and to Colonel Lewis Field, of New Haven, who retained as counsel, authorizing them to withdraw the action which has lingered in the court since last May.

The defendant, however, wants a different sort of a settlement. Gene's attorney, Homer S. Cummings of Stamford, immediately filed a motion for judgment on his cross complaint, which, among other things, alleges that the suit was brought merely to defame him and to extort money. The motion will be argued next Friday before Judge Carl Ely.

NEW ATTACK IS LAUNCHED ON ART BOARD

Following the resignation from the State art commission of Artist Walter Gilman Page, a new attack on the commission was made today by former Representative Arthur Blanchard of Cambridge.

Referring to the removal of the portrait of Governor Edmund Andros from the executive chamber hallway, Blanchard said we have a new form of censorship, and historical portraits must conform to moral reputation."

He said the portrait had been removed because of the protest of a North End schoolboy, and "because Governor Allen would not wish a pirate hanging outside his door."

He pointed out that the art commission had replaced the Andros portrait with that of William Stoughton, acting Governor from 1694 to 1699, chief justice of the illegal court by whom the Salem "witches" were tried, convicted and hanged.

"A fine, ironical distinction," said Blanchard. "The members of the State art commission no doubt wish to counteract the pernicious example of a 'pirate' with that of a man who made one of the most important judicial decisions in Massachusetts relating to superstition and fanaticism."

To explain his resignation from the art commission Page wrote a letter to a former member of the commission in which he said that he disagreed with the general policies of the commission, not only regarding the Walsh portrait, but relative to removing trees from Boston Common.

Governor Allen today accepted Page's resignation. The Governor, unaware of Page's criticism of the commission, expressed his "deep appreciation for the unselfish and loyal service which you have rendered while a member of the board."

Chairman Charles R. Grace of the commission, asked to comment on the portrait row, would only say that "the commission is making progress."

The other members of the art commission are Arthur A. Shurtleff of Boston, Cyrus E. Dallin of Arlington and H. Dudley Murphy of Lexington.

Detroit, Dec. 21 (AP)—Joseph (Legs) Laman was sentenced to from 30 to 40 years in the State prison today for his part in the kidnaping last April of Fred Begeman, retired Wyandotte bootlegger. Laman was convicted by a circuit court jury a week ago.

BULLETS HALT SPEEDER IN REVERE CHASE

A motorist, who had allegedly been traveling at 60 miles an hour, was arrested on the Revere marsh today after he had run away from a Revere policeman and a rain of revolver shots.

The motorist took to flight after his stolen car had been upset and wrecked at North Shore rd. and Kimball ave.

Patrolman Harry McKinley went home to nurse minor injuries suffered when he was thrown from the running board of the speeding car.

According to police, McKinley, while patroling his beat, had his attention attracted to an automobile zig-zagging along North Shore rd., and which stopped near the Freeman st. fire engine house.

McKinley went into the fire station to call the police patrol wagon.

Prior to the arrival of the wagon, police say, McDonald started to drive away. McKinley rushed out of the fire house and jumped on the running board of the auto, commanding McDonald to stop. The driver put on more speed and McKinley, who had only a light grip on the car's door, was thrown to the ground.

After rolling several yards the policeman picked himself up and fired several shots, at least one of which struck the car.

The gas tank of the car was perforated. McDonald lost control and the machine tipped over. McDonald with two companions were thrown out of the car. They all ran onto the marshes.

Patrolmen David Hartigan and Philip Gallo heard the crash and rushed to the scene. They captured McDonald but his two companions escaped, although a long search was made.

The machine, which was a complete wreck, was towed to the Luna Park garage.

Patrolman McKinley had to be assisted to police headquarters where he was given medical aid for the injuries he suffered when he was thrown from the car.

The car, it was learned, is the property of Marsden Reese of 145 Washington st., Peabody, and was stolen from Marblehead where he was visiting. In court his case was continued.

$100,000 Alienation Suit Withdrawn

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 21—Attachments made on property owned by Hutchinson S. Hinkle, president of the National Folding Box Company, as the first step in a $100,000 suit brought by Thomas J. Flanagan of Springfield, Mass., were withdrawn.

The suit, according to authentic information here, was to be based on a charge of alienation of affections. Jacob P. Goodhart, counsel for Hinkle, said today that he had investigated the claims and had found it entirely groundless.

Michelson to Quit Because of Health

Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP)—Prof. Albert A. Michelson, world-famous physicist who observed his 77th birthday Thursday, has resigned as head of the physics department of the University of Chicago.

Saying he was forbidden by ill health to continue his official post at the university, the famous scientist asked to be relieved from duty at the end of the school year, in June, 1930.

DOOMED 5 HEAR SLAYER AS HE DIES IN CHAIR

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21 (INS)—Five men doomed for electrocution in the prison here, know today what a man's death agonies must be like.

Last night, through an error in prison plans, they plainly heard Peter Kudzinowski pay with his life for the murder of a seven-year-old New York boy.

Although Kudzinowski was officially electrocuted for the slaying of little Joseph Sorelli, he had also confessed to murdering a man in Scranton, Pa., and to killing a five-year-old girl.

Because someone had forgotten to close the iron door leading from the cell block to the execution chamber, the five condemned murderers at Trenton could follow with their ears every move in Kudzinowski's ordeal which they soon must face themselves. Only a frail curtain kept them from seeing the death march.

Robert Elliott, official executioner of New York, New Jersey and other states and whose home was bombed last year, was the object of vilification from the condemned men. His hands trembled on the levers and no one in the death chamber could dispute that he earned the $250 paid him by the State for throwing the switch.

Warden Stone, when the cut-break occurred, sent an assistant into the cell room and the disorder was quelled.

Letters From Readers

Fight Insect Pests If You Must Fight

Editor Boston American:

If people will fight and if nations want something to fight about, fight the Mediterranean fruit fly, for which the United States has just voted an emergency appropriation of $1,200,000. Fight weevil on cotton boll. Fight the Japanese beetle that is knocking the apple orchard out of commission. Fight this fruit fly, a mean insect that does his work under cover of darkness.

If we do NOT fight these insect pests, we will be conquered by them. Fight the common house fly, that is more impertinent this fall and part of the winter than ever before, especially in country houses. Life is a continued fight, if you know what is worth fighting and it is these insects. Swat them.

Hub Bootleggers Unlike Criminals

Editor Boston American:

A representative of a group of prohibitionists in speaking the other day in Boston said that bootleggers are being recruited from the rank and file of former criminals. They are then pretty well disguised for bootleggers in Boston are dressed in black with black ties and shoes to match and look more like country parsons carrying a faded umbrella than any graduated criminal.

I really cannot believe that a criminal would do this and I do not agree with that Boston speaker at all. H. G. L.

Nasal Concerts in City Flats

Editor Boston American:

I just chuckled over that piece of news in your paper about a tired storekeeper, snoring so loud that the riot squad of the Wakefield police were summoned only to find no burglars, but a grinding noise located in the nose of an overworked seller of Christmas wares.

I live in a flat and get more or less of these nasal concerts from my neighbor above me.

He is such a good guy having no musical taste at all and not able to play any stringed instrument, that you must not find any manner of fault with him as his musical education has been sorely neglected except in this nightly attempts.

But your piece of news just pleased me and reminded me of this.

Want Information on Vivisection

Editor Boston American:

We are students in a New England high school and are doing this upon our own initiative, so don't think that anyone has put these ideas into our heads.

We are greatly incensed against vivisection on dumb animals. We desire to help all we can in this movement. Will your readers inform us through the Boston Evening American where we can get some direct information on this matter of vivisection? We are all of an age to know what our feelings are, so please don't hesitate on account of our age. We want to know the pro and con of vivisection. Where do we send for information?

Says Southerners Know Own Business

Editor Boston American:

I have dipped my pen in madness in writing this letter. It is occasioned by hearing Northern business men criticize Southern business men over industrial matters in that section of the United States. I will not fill your space with the weight of my indignation, but will simply say this: Southerners can manage and control their own affairs in business and industrial relations without the interference of Northern business men. Northerners do not understand conditions in the South. They do not grasp the race problem there and how it can be adjusted. We Southerners know our difficulties and our business complications a great deal better than the Yankee.

Trust us. We do not interfere with the North in any of its sectional complications. Let us alone. Is it any wonder that a pastor in Georgia lately demanded the whipping posts for Northern reformers who think that they are called upon to reform conditions in textile villages in the South

Theological Terms for Mundane Things

Editor Boston American:

I may be a crank, but I have something up my sleeve and I am going to spring it.

I want the name of the station in the Back Bay on the B. & A. changed from Trinity Place to a more worldly name. This word "Trinity" is too theological for me, to have it snapped before me even in a railroad station. It is named after Trinity Church, being near the station is the come back. Well, I do not believe even in naming a station after a church. I can hit this name, either way, you defend it. I am for renaming that station. A departed official of the railroad company so named it, being a member of Trinity Church. I have another hunch: Stop saying, "Christen a vessel." To "Christen" is to use the sacrament of baptism. Say "Name a vessel" and let it go at that. Keep your theological terms from things mundane. Do you get me?

War on Mosquito on Cape Popular

Editor Boston American:

It is good news that the Cape Codder is more than ever worked up over getting rid of that pest, the biting female mosquito. Understand me, I have nothing against the male mosquito as he minds his own business and does not mind mine.

Chairman Gordon Hutchins and Secretary L. E. Boston of the State Reclamation Board and others are in real earnest over this war against that tormenting female mosquito.

Cape Cod is the most unique place in the United States. There is no place in the East like it. Fred F. Dill of North Eastham, chairman of the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce on Mosquito Control, is the right man in the right place. Get Cape Cod worked up over the mosquito and have Fred lead the crowd. Then engage the services of the cannibal mosquito from France and the job is done.

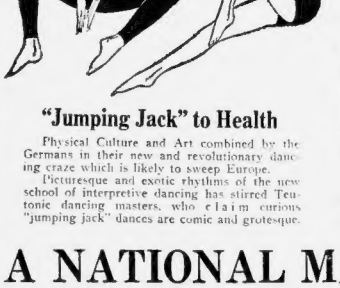
Did God Create Woman To Obey And Serve Man, Her Master?

How Will American Women Answer New Jersey Deacon's Indictment of Their Sex?



A well-known Bible scholar and teacher has said, "Woman was created a companion fit for man and for his glory; she has no other excuse for being in existence . . . woman is not on an equality with man . . . a bobbed head is a shorn head and a shorn woman is a disgraced woman . . . woman's place is in the home."

What will the women reply? What will you say after you read this startling arraignment of modern womanhood?

"Jumping Jack" to Health

Physical Culture and Art combined by the Germans in their new and revolutionary dancing craze which is likely to sweep Europe.

Picturesque and exotic rhythms of the new school of interpretive dancing has stirred Teutonic dancing masters, who claim curious "jumping jack" dances are comic and grotesque.

Diocesan House Open on Christmas Eve

Bishop Slattery in announcing his program at No. 1 Joy st., says: "I hope especially that the boys and girls of the church schools who are studying in the schools and colleges in this neighborhood, who may not be returning to their homes for Christmas, will come in and join with us in the carols and have a cup of coffee."

Community Church and Dr. Skinner

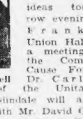
Prof. Clarence R. Skinner of the department of ethics of Tufts College will speak tomorrow morning at Symphony Hall on "The Law of Expectant Attention." An interpretation. There will be a special program of music by the quartet, with Margaret Gorham at the organ.

'INTELLECTUAL' CLASH OF IDEAS, COMMON CAUSE

"Did Christ Establish the Catholic Church?" Over this question two ardent supporters of widely differing faiths—Catholicism and Unitarianism—will hold a royal battle of words and ideas tomorrow evening at Franklin Union Hall at a meeting of the Common Cause Forum. Dr. Carlyle Summerbell of the Unitarian Church of Roslindale will argue the question with Mr. David Goldstein of the Catholic Truth Guild. Of this unusual and promising debate an advance statement sent out by the Common Cause Forum states:

Dr Summerbell

"This claim of Mr. Goldstein will be opposed by Rev. Carlyle Summerbell, pastor of the Roslindale Unitarian Church, whose equipment for platform work and intellectual originality has gained for him the commendation of Senator Moses of New Hampshire, the Pittsburgh Leader and other persons and publications of prominence. Rev. Mr. Summerbell promises that this is to be a debate and not a sparring match. Mr. Goldstein agrees to do his part to make the occasion what it is advertised to be, a real historic intellectual battle, by presenting data and arguments in his opening remarks to prove his affirmation—that Christ established the Catholic Church—and by exposing the incorrectness of every argument to the contrary that his time will permit him to refute."



Mr Goldstein

The public is invited to this debate. The doors of Franklin Union (old corner Berkeley and Appleton Sts.) will open at 7 o'clock and the speaking is timed to begin Sunday night at 8 o'clock. Chairman Joseph P. Mulligan will preside.

American Friends and Federal Council

The American Friends Service Committee is working with the Federal Council of Churches in relieving sufferers at Marion, North Carolina, who have been thrown out of work by the recent strike. One hundred and fifty families have been ejected from the houses in which they were living, and now have no abiding place. An illustrated appeal sent out by the Federal Council calls for immediate help for these wretched people of the South.

The report in brief states:

"At the present time 150 families are being fed and clothed. This requires a total weekly budget of about $1100. May we not depend upon you to promptly give us aid for Marion in its hour of need. Checks may be sent either to the Federal Council of Churches, 105 E. 22nd st., New York City, or to the American Friends Service Committee, 20 S. 12 st., Philadelphia."

Catholic Radio Hour and Christmas Spirit

A program appropriate to the Christmas season will be presented at this Sunday's broadcast of the Catholic Truth Period under the auspices of the Catholic Radio Committee over Radio Station WNAC (The Shepard Stores). The broadcast will be sent out on the air as usual from 3 to 4 p. m.

The speaker will be the Rev. M. J. Ahern, S. J., and he will take as his subject: "The Spirit of Christmas—Peace, Good Will."

Christmas musical numbers will be rendered by the Choir of Weston College, Weston, Rev. Joseph T. Murphy, S. J., organist and choirmaster.

Christmas Spirit at Holy Cross

Christmas began at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross parochial school yesterday afternoon when the children of the eighth grade gave a rendition of Dickens' Christmas Carol." In the picture, taken by our staff photographer, Miss Grace Orpin is seen as a Spirit of Christmas, while the two choir boys, Joseph Coakley and William Dundon, sing carols at her side. Other numbers on the program: 1—Cardinal's Christmas Hymn. 2—"Our Little King." 3—"Why We Keep Christmas." 4—"Offerings of the Infant King." 5—"In Bethlehem." 6—"The Message of the Bells." 7—"The Christmas Gifts. 8—"Hark, What Mean These Holy Voices?" and "Christmas Carol." The children were trained by Miss Ann Doherty, and each of eight grades were represented.

Peace and Good Will

"NOT since the herald angels sang that peace is coming has mankind been so near a warless world as it is this blessed Christmas. Wars and rumors of war may still darken the sky. Armies and navies may be absurdly and even dangerously large. Militarism certainly is vociferous. Yet permanent peace is more nearly within our reach today than it has ever been before in the history of the world. Woe to us if we fail to grasp and hold it!

"The remarkable events of 1929 in the promotion of the peace of the world have represented the sudden unfolding of a bud that has long been approaching maturity. The general pact for the renunciation of war which on July 24, by proclamation of President Hoover, became the law of our land, and simultaneously the law of the greater part of the world, was recognized everywhere as the achievement of peoples rather than of governments. Today 55 nations have pledged to one another that they will seek the solution of all disputes only by peaceful means."

(By permission of the Christian Register.)

West Newton Baptist Will View Pictures

Tomorrow evening will bring many students to church who are spending Christmas holidays at home. The special attraction is a talk by Neal Bousfield, who is the son of a missionary and South China. He will show pictures as he describes "The Land of the Walking Giants."

"Peace on Earth" at Dix St. Church

Following the morning service there will be a song service by the choir. This church administers to all who believe that "Love to God and Love to Man" constitutes the essentials of all religion. Christ Church is located on the corner of Dorchester ave. and Dix st., Dorchester.

Forefathers' Day for Congregationalists

Today, December 21, is the 309th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers in the Mayflower at Plymouth. Congregational churches throughout the country will make this a special occasion this year and will continue the observance in their pulpits tomorrow.

A bulletin sent out by the general council of Congregational Churches with headquarters in New York City says in part:

"The value of these three centuries to the present is in their spiritual dynamic. Nothing could make us less worthy to be heirs of the Pilgrims than to halt where they—(Pilgrim fathers)—halted, and looking backward toward Plymouth Rock to be turned into statues like Lot's wife.

Jamaica Plain Congregational

"The Increase of His Government" is the subject for a Christmas sermon tomorrow morning by the Rev. William A. Lee. A special musical program will be directed by Dr. Samuel R. Gaines. In the evening there will be a "Drama of Worship," "The Eternal Quest," with a large cast of young people taking the parts.

Federation Meeting and Bishop M'Connell

The Greater Boston Federation of Churches has received word that Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches of New York, will speak at the annual meeting to be held January 21 at the Church of the Redemption.

RELIGIOUS READING GROWS

Recent figures appear to indicate that more people are interested in writing and in reading religious books than ever before in America. Last year recorded more published books on religion than on any other subject, and such books ranked second in number to books on fiction. The Federal Council Bulletin in its latest issue also makes the statement that this high percentage of religious books is phenomenal in its comparison with previous years. Last year there was published 778 religious books, as against 665 in 1929 and 448 in 1900. That religious readers might not feel too optimistic the bulletin goes on to say that our entire output of new publications in 1928 was but 7, 614 as against 35,000 in Soviet Russia, over 30,000 volumes in Germany and 20,000 in Japan.

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s School of Religion

The School of Religion in connection with the Iowa State University has established for the first time in any college, chairs for the teaching of Judaism, Protestantism and Catholicism. These are endowed by Mr. Rockefeller, Jr.

In its recent issue, the "American Hebrew," a Jewish publication of New York City, gives a special place to Mr. Rockefeller, Pres. Nicholas Murray Butler and Pres. A. Lawrence Lowell as three outstanding men who have done much to further friendliness between Catholics, Jews and Protestants.

'The Christmas Story' Heard for First Time

The junior choir of the Union Church, Columbus ave., will sing a new cantata which has never been heard in Boston. It is the work of Donald E. Sellow of the South End and a member of the Union Church. It will be rendered by forty young voices. In the evening a pageant, "The Message of the Stars" will be given with a large cast which will require not only the platform, but also the aisles. The public is asked to be in the pews by 7:30. In the morning Dr. Jump will preach on "Star-shine Through the Ages."

Tercentenary and Churches

The Massachusetts Federation of Churches has voted to ask every Protestant church in the state to observe in some way on Sunday, Jan 26 the three hundredth anniversary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Special mention will be made of the first Sunday of the new year January 5. Each church, therefore, will it is hoped make its service conform somewhat to the plan laid down by the church federation.

This same federation has endorsed the idea of commemorating the tenth anniversary of the passage of the present prohibition amendment, on January 12.

Mayor Nichols to Dine With the Needy

The Davis St. Industrial Home in the South End will feed one hundred and twenty-five or more Christmas poor. Mayor and Mrs. Malcolm Nichols have been invited as honor guests. On Christmas Eve there will be displayed a beautiful Christmas tree, with presents. This practice of giving something to the poor on Christmas has been observed for 42 years.

Tercentenary

The Rev. H. H. Saunderson, editor of the Wayside Pulpit, has compiled a special service to be used by any interested church at any time during the year 1930. He has studied exhaustively the early history of the New England churches and has culled what he believes will be generally satisfactory to a majority of churches. The Massachusetts Federation of Churches has printed this service in special leaflet form and is offering it at a moderate sum.

Justice Brandies and Palestine

In the first announcement and declaration for 13 years on matters in connection with the Zionist movement Justice Brandeis has again declared himself as willing to help plot the Palestine cause. He in a public utterance has again declared his faith in the Jewish people. He said in a recent address at Washington:

"I am here gladly at the suggestion of the chairman, because I am convinced that a group of American business men of proven ability and loyalty to the Jewish cause, can, cooperating under the leadership of Mr. Warburg, assure a Jewish Palestine."

Christmas Play at First Methodist

"Why the Chimes Rang" is a new Christmas play by Elizabeth Apthorp shown in two scenes, one in a peasant's cot and another at the German court. Costumes will be distinctive and the play will be accompanied by special music. This presentation will be given at the First Methodist Church. Temple st. It is advertised as bringing a gripping message and the true Christmas spirit. The minister of this church will preach in the morning on "God's Gift."

Married at Midnight Christmas Evening

Festivities will be followed by Holy Communion and then by a marriage at the Hyde Park Congregational church. The service will begin at 11:30 P. M. with the singing of Christmas carols. Then will come the wedding of Miss Katherine Rebecca Fairchild of Moodus Connecticut, and Mr. Burton Wilkinson Johnson, of Gloucester. The holy sacrament will be received and a large attendance of people is expected to attend who are interested in what might be called a high church service among Congregationalists.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST

The golden text for all Christian Science churches tomorrow will be "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." (II Corinthians 4:6.)

This wealthy Chicago merchant has offered $10,000 for the best essay written on the topic of Jewish life in America, for the fullest spiritual development of the individual Jew and the most effective functioning of the Jewish community in America. He offers $5000 in addition to any student in any college who will write the best essay on the same subject.

Dr. Stidger on Youth Causes Comment

When Dr. Stidger recently in his talk on American youth at Tremont Temple encouraged a considerable amount of independent thinking and acting among young people whom the clergyman advised not to follow too closely parental guidance, he stirred up much controversy. Many parents believe the boys and girls of today are already too prone to go their own way and therefore, it is not in good taste for a minister to give them added conceit. Dr. Stidger based part of his argument on the mess of a world war into which youth was plunged without any say in the matter. If adults and parents can do nothing better than a world war Dr. Stidger recommended that the young people think for themselves.

Children Entertained by Christian Union

The usual Christmas generosity was shown by the Young Men's Christian Union when five hundred youngsters from various parts of congested Boston came for their party and candy last week. This custom is so old that many of the children who attended years ago are now parents of children who enjoy the good times as much as their parents. The union conducts a camp both summer and winter situated at Greenfield, New Hampshire. The camp is used continually for week-end parties. The Curtain Club has been there recently. The Camera Club in the Union has a reputation for splendid work and fine exhibits of their compositions.

Religious Papers May Soon Combine

With the joining of the two great religious bodies, the Congregationalists and the Christians, plans are developing for a consolidation of the two outstanding denominational papers, the "Herald of Gospel Liberty" and the "Congregationalist." The Herald is printed in Dayton, Ohio, and bears the date of 1808 on its front page. It is in fact the oldest religious paper in the country. When the change is made The Congregationalist will not make any change of name, and the present editor, the Rev. William P. Gilroy, will continue in that capacity.

At Trinity

Thomas Howell, one of the most popular and appreciated boy soprano singers in New England, will have a prominent place in the program of Christmas music tomorrow at Trinity Church, Copley sq.

2 Deacons Ordained at St. Paul's Today

Bishop Slattery ordained two Deacons to the priesthood at 10 o'clock this morning in St. Paul's Cathedral. The young men are the Rev. Richard P. McClintock and the Rev. Charles A. Clough, Jr.

The Rev. Ralph M. Harper, rector, of St. John's Church, Winthrop, will present Mr. McClintock, and the Rev. Dr. J. N. Cabot, rector of St. Peter's Church in Weston is to be Mr. Clough's presenter.

The Rev. Frederic W. Fitts, president of the Standing Committee and rector of St. John's Church, Roxbury, preached the sermon.

On Christmas Day at 11 a. m., the Bishop Slattery will preach in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Natick Pastors Join in Xmas Message

"Peace on Earth to Men of Goodwill" is the topic chosen by all the ministers of Natick for a Christmas sermon. The idea of all churches advancing in unison so far as their ministers go has worked out quite satisfactorily. There are many laymen who are beginning to think that if their clergymen can be so united in cooperative effort much more might be done to bring congregations together.

SOCIAL SERVICE

New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children

(Legal Title—Incorporated 1894)

Brookline Street, Oak Hill Section, Newton Center

This institution was the first to give Sunlight Treatment in this country. Our growth has progressed steadily, but there is never enough room to meet the increasing demand made for the care of crippled children. Recently there have been added porches and school rooms equipped with glass which transmits the ultra-violet rays, thus permitting the children to be exposed to sunlight while they are protected through the winter months.

The work is threefold: 1. To give destitute crippled children a home; 2. To provide adequate orthopedic and nursing care especially for those with tuberculous joints and infantile paralysis; 3. To give them educational advantages and vocational training so as to make them self-supporting later in life. We also have a Training School for Nursing Attendants.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL
"Vision of Sir Launfal"

Through the generosity of the public we are able day by day to relieve want and distress, and help the needy to self-dependence. In 1929, with larger resources entrusted to us, we were able to reach more people. We take this means of thanking those friends, old and new, who made this possible. We also extend, both to those who have helped us carry on our work and to those who as yet have not experienced the joy of giving,

STAGE AND SCREEN

RHONA FENELY

MISS FENELY helps uphold the love interest in "The Middle Watch," the new show at the Copley, on Monday night. She is the latest acquisition to the roster of E. E. Clive players.

MARION MILLER

MISS MILLER is one of the beauties of "Strike Up the Band," which opens at the Shubert next week. Soulful eyes she has, and perfect lips, and she is mighty good to look at.

ALEXANDER KIRKLAND AND ERNEST LAWFORD

YOUTH WILL have its fling, only here it's a wing, for Mr. Kirkland and Mr. Lawford are discussing aviation in "Wings Over Europe." Theater Guild play at Hollis Street.

HUB TRIES THE TIMID TYROS

By . . . GLAS YOUNG

IN the older but not too distant days, outraged critics in excellent communities like Baltimore and Washington called frantically to Allah to deliver them from the swelling curse of the theatrical syndicate. These points south of the Hudson were favorite proving grounds for the drama's mighty monarchs, convenient havens of dress rehearsal before descent upon Broadway. And always there was the economic advantage of willing customers surging at the gates.

• • •

THE cities have alternately stormed and crooked their knees in fervent prayers for redemption. But things might have been worse. An expert mental station in the drama to some of the necessities of the trade and such things taken at face value is more to be desired than a string of empty playhouses or those limited to playing unwilling landlord to derelicts crowded off Broadway.

Nicholas Young

FOR a good many seasons the more sophisticated region bounded by Tremont and Boylston sts. escaped, or was spared, what the profound doctors of the drama have solemnly looked upon as merely out-of-town laboratory work leading up to a finished Manhattan production. But fashions change in the theater, as well as in lingerie, health foods and labels you meet on imported drinkables. Almost without warning, Boston has been made over into the producers' most important depot for test, trial and, you might add, some tribulation.

• • •

FOR the boys and girls at home, however, the stage presents many excellent points of interest. With a record of 10 untried productions as the present season's quiet at the local mill, at least four have become the outstanding hits along Broadway and down its side streets. These are George White's "Scandals," the first to give up the privilege of pay to see dress rehearsals; "Bitter Sweet," Jack Donahue in "Sons o' Guns" (formerly "Carry On"), and "Thirty Million Frenchmen." Other cities where the drama, musical or otherwise, still has a place of abode will wait for these. Boston already has enjoyed them.

• • •

THE holiday week will present still another embryo. Manhattan knockout of it turns out that way with Clark and McCullough in "Strike Up the Band." There is doubled-barreled promise in this speculation. George Gershwin is the composer and to those who prefer to know their musical comedy Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough are names fairly reeking with the magic that makes musical entertainment worth the current market prices.

Burlesque Model

ALICE SHON

MISS SHON scintillates in the new show, "French Models," at the Gayety Monday.

THE WAH-WAH NOT INDIAN BUT GREEK

A SHORTAGE of Grecian poets centuries ago started the relentless movement for wah-wah songs. The authors of "Hot Chocolates" discovered that Aristophanes introduced the first jabber-jabber song into "The Frogs" in the year 405 B. C.

Athens was beggared of poets, and because of this the first wah-wah song came into being. Aristophanes in "The Frogs" had Dionysus going down to Hades to fetch back a poet, and during the action of his story used a song with meaningless words in an attempt to prove that poets deserved a place on earth after all.

"But, strange to relate," say the "Hot Chocolates" authors, "the first wah-wah song caught on and put the play across. The first person who sang the song, however, was kept out of sight. Modern wah-wahers have become more brave, perhaps on account of Swiss yodlers successfully escaping punishment by audiences.

"Since the days of Aristophanes there have come Hungarian hatchetations, Helen Kane boop-de-boopers, cowboy yip-i-yaddy-i-yayers and all sorts of addy-dabbas. All these writers and singers of this type of song should bow to the memory of Aristophanes."

Next Week's New Bills

SHUBERT—(Wednesday) Clark and McCullough in "Strike Up the Band," musical comedy. Score by George Gershwin; lyrics by Ira Gershwin; book by George Kaufman and Morris Ryskind. Included in the cast are Blanche Ring, Jerry Goff, Ethel Kenyon, Doris Carson, Gordon Smith, Dudley Clements and Red Nichols and his orchestra. Dances arranged by George Hale; costumes by Charles Le Maire. Produced by Edgar Selwyn.

TREMONT—Connie's "Hot Chocolates," a revue in color. Cast recruited from Harlem's most spirited night club. Comedy sketches by Eddie Green; lyrics by Andy Razaz; music by Thomas Waller and Harry Brooks. Among the players are "Jazzlips" Richardson and Edith Wilson, who are featured; others are Billy Higgins, Billy Maxey and Gallie De Gaston. Staged by Leonard Harper; music arrangement by Russell Wooding.

MAJESTIC—(Tuesday) "Naughty Marietta," a comic opera. Book and lyrics by Rida Johnson Young; music by Victor Herbert. First of the Victor Herbert Festival presentations. Included in the cast are Halfred Young, Herbert L. Waterous, Welsey McCloud, Ilse Marvenga, Clarence Harvey and Lydia Van Gilder. Staged by Milton Aborn.

PLYMOUTH—(Tuesday) "The House of Fear," featuring Cecil Spooner. Mystery drama with a background of broad farce and brisk comedy. Wall Sconce is the author. Included in the supporting cast are Gordon Westcott, Barbara Gray, William W. Green, Lorna Elliot, Harry Worth and Jean Cleveland. Produced by Ray Prodtions, Inc.

COPLEY—"The Middle Watch," a deep sea farce by Ian Hay and Stephen Hall-King. The story concerns the adventures of two girls marooned on a British warship in Chinese waters. Changes in the cast bring about the return of Ralph Roberts; other new arrivals to the Clive forces are Rhona Fenely, Agnes Elliot Scott and J. P. Wilson. Staged by E. E. Clive.

WILBUR—"Rope's End," a thriller by Patrick Hamilton. Story concerns two Oxford undergraduates who murder a friend in the interest of new sensations. Included in the cast are Ernest Milton, Sebastian Shaw, Ivan Brandt, Samuel Lysons, Nora Nicholson and Hugh Dempster. Staged by Reginald Denham. Produced by Lee Shubert.

HARP SOLOIST PLAYS WITH SYMPHONY

By MOSES SMITH

THERE is no recognizable connection between this week's program of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Yuletide season. It is just another symphony concert, and even the audience at the Friday matinee looked upon it in this light, for it came in customary numbers instead of leaving—as a pre-Christmas concert generally does—huge gaps of vacant seats.

Bernard Zighera, first harpist of the orchestra, was soloist in a piece called "Feerie" by his former teacher in Paris, Marcel Lucien Tournier. Originally written for harp and string quartet and now receiving its first performance with orchestra, the piece is written in the politest impressionistic style. It enabled, however, Zighera to display what we suppose is a very fluent technique.

The applause following this performance gave a slight measure of vitality to the audience, which was otherwise languorous. It was as if the people had assembled for a weekly duty and then in the manner of a music critic dared the performers to please them. Certainly there was brilliant playing to excite an average assemblage, notably the performance of the Second Suite drawn from Ravel's "Daphnis et Chloe."

Russian music, represented by Moussorgsky's Prelude to "Khovantchina" and Rimsky-Korsakow's "Sadko," began the concert. And a fellow-Slav, Dvorak, ended it with the "New World" symphony. This work, which once caused a critical war as to the sources of its themes, has been and is still much overplayed elsewhere. Fortunately that is not the case in Boston, where it has not been heard at the symphony concerts in years.

As a result we can still take joy in the honest emotion of this piece, in its beautiful melodies and in its occasionally inspired orchestration. Mr. Koussevitzky labored with it as with a work of love. The orchestra, however, fell short of its best performances.

Opera Highlight

MARIA OLSZEWSKA

MME. OLSZEWSKA will sing with the Chicago Civic Opera on its visit here in February.

LEFT SCREEN FOR STAGE

ALEXANDER KIRKLAND dominates "Wings Over Europe," which the Theater Guild is showing at the Hollis Street. And this not alone by his youth, the lines given him to speak or the situations in which he is the central force, but by unusually fine acting. Also there's the fact that he is surrounded by a score of actors possessed of intelligence, authority and wide experience. By a natural method that conceals technique, however, he creates a genuine character of the young Shelley-like inventor and not only outlines it, but gives it color and correct dimensions.

Alexander Kirkland

Coming from a theatrical family, Kirkland's career was started at the age of 12; curious by enough before the cameras in Los Angeles. There followed several school years and further attempts to keep him in college, but he escaped at last to his secret love, the stage.

Music Series for Youth Will Begin January 4

Ernest Schelling, composer, conductor and pianist, will give the first of his Boston series of Saturday morning programs for young people in Jordan Hall, January 4 at 11 o'clock. In addition to a large contingent of players from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Society of Ancient Instruments will assist him.

As usual there will be lantern slides, note books and informal talks. The opening program featuring the string choir will include works by Beethovan, Vivaldi, Mozart, De Lamarter and Mouret.

YULE FEAST OF OPERETTAS

THE coming 10 weeks are to be given over to a cycle of revivals of Victor Herbert's best known operettas at the Majestic. Mr. Herbert was born in Dublin, Ireland, February 1, 1859. His grandfather was Samuel Lover, the famous Irish author and poet. After his father's death, Herbert was sent to Germany to study music. In 1886, he met and married Therese Foerster, Viennese prima donna, and shortly after the newly married couple came to America.

Victor Herbert

On reaching America Herbert immediately took out naturalization papers and eventually became a full-fledged citizen of the United States, destined to become one of its most illustrious and distinguished sons.

LOVE 'EM 'N' LEAVE 'EM IN FILMS

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

WHAT happens when filmdom's "twin stars" sever old picture relations and make new tieups? Really, you never can tell in advance. Some have flopped; others have gone over big. By a coincidence Boston fans may observe two well known screen figures in new bookups this week. And the answer to the question is something each fan may get for himself. There's fun in the quest, because it puts added zest in watching the photoplays.

• • •

SOME stellar partnerships have been so close to the hearts of lovers of film fare that they are wont to think of the two names together. Mention of one name subconsciously begats the other name. Like Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill. Or, Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor. Similar things exist in the heavens above; astronomers know them as binaries, or double stars. But never has science heard of a case where a binary has split asunder; sometimes one eclipses the other celestially, but severance is unknown. But different it is in moviedand; and so here we are confronted with new names in the places of Mesdemoiselles Mackaill and Gaynor. For Mr. Mulhall has gone and taken unto himself another sharer in his shadow love—none other than the delectable Patsy Ruth Miller. Simultaneously, Mr. Farrell ties up with Mary Duncan for better or for worse, pictorially speaking.

Mary Duncan

"CHANGE the name and not the letter, change for worse and not for better," may or may not be true as an adage to apply to picture partnerships. Mr. Mulhall sticks by his Mary, a Miller for a Mackaill. So be it and Miss Miller may be seen and heard any day this gladsome Christmas week, up at the Fenway. "Twin Beds" is the offering; a peppy stage farce that was done into a talkie in 1920, and now comes again as a talkie, plus singing and dancing. (If talkie, why not singie, and dancie?) Whether Mr. Mulhall will be as well off with his new screen helpmeet as with his old companion, is a point worth noting as you see this latest picture of his.

• • •

FOR Mr. Farrell the comparison may not be made one merely of fans' memory. He is paired with Miss Duncan in "The River" at the Keith-Albee; not far off he may be seen at the New B. F. Keith's with Miss Gaynor. Which girl inspires Mr. Farrell to give the better film performance? Which is the better actress? Any admirer troubled by such questions as these should get a decided "kick" out of chasing the answers. We are making up our mind right this minute to see if there be any difference; and to find out just how the new partners size up alongside the old.

RUTH CHATTERTON—HUBERT DRUCE

WHY SHOULDN'T Mr. Druce be glad with the sweet Miss Chatterton near in "The Laughing Lady" at the Metropolitan. So why be sad?

BETTY COMPSON

MISS COMPSON is the queen of "Show of Shows" at Uptown and Washington St. Olympia.

BARBARA KENT—HAROLD LLOYD

Guild Sole Survivor

ONLY one of the shows now current at the theaters will hold the stage during the holiday week—"Wings Over Europe" at the Hollis. This unusual play, as Theater Guild selections are likely to be, already has had one big week and will enter its second and final six days on Monday. If you have any taste for seeing the entire British cabinet shaking in its boots, this is your opportunity.

STAGE AND SCREEN

The Screen Speaks Its Merry Christmas Greeting as Theaters Spread Their Good Will Tidings to One and All

CHARLES FARRELL AND MARY DUNCAN

JACK MULHALL—PATSY R. MILLER
AN ARMFUL that is also an evening's entertainment is Miss Miller. She and Mr. Mulhall are at the Fenway. The film is "Twin Beds."

JANET GAYNOR AND MARJORIE WHITE

CONRAD NAGEL—LEILA HYAMS
READY TO SEAL the compact with a kiss are Mr. Nagel and Miss Hyams in "The Thirteenth Chair," Orpheum.

ANITA PAGE AND WILLIAM HAINES
EAT, DRINK and be merry is the message of this "shot" from "Navy Blues" at Loew's State. Mr. Haines seems to be catering to Miss Page. Hot dawg next!

GOLF CHAMPIONS ARE BOOKED FOR MACK SENNETT FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
(Copyright, 1929, Universal Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21—Mack Sennett has staged one of the most remarkable come-backs in motion picture history with his talking comedies. They are booked in all the important theaters in the country and Mack is full of eagerness and plans to make hay while the sun shines. He begins work immediately after Christmas on a comedy starring Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel, the two golf champions. If the rest of the country is as interested in golf as California, this picture ought to be one of 1930's best bets.

Marjorie Beebe, a Mack Sennett beauty, will have the feminine lead and Mr. Sennett, in person, will direct. This picture is to be started the day after Christmas, so you can see our friend Mack is not losing any time. And of course, it's to be a typical Sennett comedy. How come John Farrell didn't get a job, too?

Louella O. Parsons

ABSOLUTELY refuse to lose my equilibrium (grand words over any more big-time news in the movies. It's bad for my health to say nothing of my state of mind but I did get a thrill when I heard that First National is seriously contemplating the production of "The Girl of the Golden West." 'Tis to be in color and with all the trimmings that have made it such a popular stage play and opera. Too bad Lawrence Tibbett is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He would be grand in the same role he sings on the stage.

* * *

WELL, well, well. When Al Jolson and George M. Cohan get together the rumor is that a rare track story called "Big Boy" will be the result. There will be some songs and catchy numbers, such as only George Cohan knows how to write and only Al Jolson knows how to sing. I must admit this wasn't told to be by anyone on the United Artists lot, but by one of our deuths, who, with his ear to the ground, heard some rumblings. A rare track story with suspense and a few laughs. Let's give Al plenty of laughs, for goodness knows he needs them after the pathos of "Say It With Songs." I just can't bear to have him do another one like that.

* * *

FOR well over a week Reginald Denny has been coming and going on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. For well over a week there has been rumors in the air, fast and thick, that Mr. Denny, who has reduced to a mere shadow of himself, will play one of the important parts in "Madame Satan," Cecil de Mille's next. We tried to corner Elsie Janis, who is assisting in the De Mille production, to get a confession out of her on the Denny matter, but Elsie only opened her eyes wide and said, "Honestly, I haven't an idea who will play the lead." Wise girl, Miss Janis. She isn't telling any secrets out of school. We asked C. B. and he said "there is no story as yet." But between you and me and the gatepost I will be greatly surprised if Reginald Denny doesn't put his name on a contract before the new year.

* * *

THE best news that I have heard this Christmas time is the recovery of Alma Rubens. She slipped into town quietly and spent two days doing Christmas shopping before she went to her sister's ranch to spend the holidays with her husband, Ricardo Cortez, and her family. She never looked better, and those who know and love her best believe she has achieved a complete cure. There is no more talented actress on the screen than Miss Rubens, and there is no reason that she cannot re-establish herself and stage a return. What better thing could anybody do than to help her come back, and we hope she will be flooded with offers from the film producers.

* * *

"THE Deluge," produced in New York by Arthur Hopkins with Pauline Lord, was a great disappointment to lovers of the theater. It only lasted a short time even though the critics pronounced it one of the best plays of the season. No one can ever tell why a play doesn't go. It may be the talkie will have better luck. "The Deluge" was produced in silent form and I don't believe it was much of a picture but with a new name, "The Sin Club," and Frank Lloyd to direct, well, First National may turn out a humdinger. You can never tell.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Harry D'Arrast, back in Hollywood again, getting a hearty reception at the Embassy Club. Corinne Griffith and her husband, Walter Morosco, dining at this new Hollywood rendezvous. All of Hollywood shopping like mad to get Christmas buying done before Dec. 25. Constance Talmadge and Townsend Netcher, arm in arm, walking down the boulevard. Bebe Daniels flying to San Francisco to see Ben Lyon in "The Boomerang." Nancy Carroll, window-shopping and being admirably pointed out by two college boys. Mary Pickford's dressing room at United Artists studio being put in readiness for her arrival in Hollywood January 4. That's all today.

MISS CORIO IS TO SHINE

WITH a special midnight show to be given Tuesday evening with Ann Corio as the featured attraction, in addition to the regular performances of "French Models," there will be special Christmas activity this week at the Gayety.

Miss Corino made one of the biggest hits of her career in Boston last week, and she was prevailed upon to accept the midnight show engagement. She will have to fly to Boston in order to reach here in time for the appearance at the midnight show which will start at 11:45 on Christmas Eve.

"French Models" has as its stars, Viola Elliott and Jim Bennett, but in addition has Ella Sears, Eddie Lerraye, Edythe Bates, Jack Reynolds, Al Brown and June Palmer.

Hollyb'e Gayety Jazz orchestra will aid; several new features have been planned by this orchestra.

Roland Hayes Recital

Roland Hayes will give a recital in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, January 19. This will be the second appearance of the negro tener in Boston this season.

"BARE FACTS" AT HOWARD

BEGINNING Monday at the Howard, Ed Daley's "Bare Facts" burlesque is to serve as the Christmas week attraction. Joe Yule, Reggie White and dashing Lena Daley, are stars. Louise Miller, Syd Rogers, George Miller, Ruth Peeler, Ray Bond and Flo Healey are other lights.

On Tuesday night there will be an extra midnight show, with "Whoopee" from start to finish. In addition, during the entire week there will be a variety bill of merit coupled with moving pictures of the standard type. Buster Shaver and his Tiny Town Revue; Jack Joyce, and DeCosta and Gridley, appear in person.

The pictures will offer "All at Sea," "Sky Pilot," and "Hot or Cold"; also the Howard News. The usual Friday night midnight show occurs next week.

SCORED NOTES ARE TURNED INTO GOLD

GEORGE GERSHWIN, who is represented by his music in "Strike Up the Band," the Clark and McCullough show which Edgar Selwyn presents at the Shubert on Christmas night, is internationally famous for his Rhapsody in Blue. This number did much to establish Mr. Gershwin as an important composer, its financial rewards recently culminated in a contract for $50,000 for its talking picture rights. It is a far leap from this sum to the $15 a week which Gershwin earned as a song writer for a publishing house. George had left high school at the age of 17 for this alluring job on Tin Pan Alley. He spent eight hours a day pounding out songs.

George Gershwin

He wrote his first popular success, "Swanee," for Al Jolson. Another hit of his was "I Am So Young and You're So Beautiful." Before sustaining the majority Gershwin was inspired by Alex Aarons to write the tunes for "Lu, Lu, Lorlie." Next came an assignment from George White to write the music for the "Scandals" of 1920.

Then Aarons and Freedley formed a combination and Gershwin was appointed their unofficial composer. His first effort in their behalf was "Lady Be Good." Then came "Tip-Toes," "Oh Kay" and "Funny Face." For Ziegfeld Gershwin wrote "Rosalie" and "Show Girl."

"Black and White" Dance "Show of Shows" Feature

Among features of "Show of Shows," now at the Uptown and Washington St. Olympia, is the "Black and White" number, featuring Louise Fazenda, Frank Fay and 200 dancers. These nimble ladies are dressed in black and white, in striking contrast with the rainbow hues of all but one sequence of "Show of Shows."

Scores of stars take part in this extravaganza, among them being John Barrymore, Irene Bordoni, Winnie Lightner, Georges Carpentier, Nick Lucas, Monte Blue, Myrna Loy, Dolores Costello, Patsy Ruth Miller, Grant Withers, Armida, H. B. Warner, Beatrice Lillie, Richard Barthelmess and Alice White.

Looking Ahead

DECEMBER 30—
"Major Barbara," a Theater Guild production, at the Hollis.

JANUARY 13—
"Pygmalion" at the Hollis.

The Lips That Get the Laughs

"JAZZLIPS" RICHARDSON

THIS KING OF facial contortionists will be seen in "Connie's Hot Chocolates" at the Tremont Monday night. The sketch of Mr. Richardson is by Artist Charles Schmidt. Whole mouthful, too.

PLAYED AS BOY IN GALILEE

A NATIVE Galilean, Stephen A. Habaush, will appear next week at Tremont Temple, with an original illustrated travelogue on Jerusalem and the Holy Land. Mr. Habaush spent his boyhood on the hills around the Galilean sea, and although America may claim him as a citizen and a product of one of our great universities, it is with native as well as American eyes that he sees this great country a few years ago. There is synchronized music, and Madame Habaush assists her husband. Mr. Habaush is the author of "My Shepherd Life in Galilee."

Stephen A. Habaush

Piano Recital

Rita Neve, English pianist, will introduce several works at her Boston recital in Jordan Hall on January 13. Two are "Poem" by Norman Demuth and "Caledonian Market" by Poldowski.

Pictures--Variety

GLOBE — "The Mighty" and "Lucky in Love" for four days; starting Thursday, "The Delightful Rogue" and "The Saturday Night Kid."

STAGE ADOPTS DESCENDANT OF CABOT

A MEMBER of the famous Cabot family of Boston, is a prominent player with the Theatre Guild, which is to present Major Barbara, at the Hollis during the two weeks commencing December 30 as the fourth production of the second Theatre Guild subscription season in Boston. He is Elliot Cabot, a graduate of both Harvard and Cambridge Universities. His ancestors have the Mayflower beaten by a century for he is a descendant of John and Sebastian Cabot, who followed Columbus to America.

Elliot Cabot

In the autumn of 1922, after having filled important roles in college dramatics, he was given a role in "Six Characters in Search of an Author." He is what his profession calls "a break" in "Sun Up." Then he signed with a stock company, sponsored by Walter Vonnegut at the Murat Theater in Indianapolis. He later appeared with the Theatre Guild in "The Silver Cord," with Laura Hope Crews. He also had a leading role in "Juarez and Maximilian." He also has appeared in "Strange Interlude" and "The Camel Through the Needle's Eye."

Hadley Conductor for People's Symphony

HENRY KIMBALL HADLEY will again conduct the People's Symphony Orchestra in the regular Sunday afternoon concert tomorrow from 2 to 3 p. m. Nino Martini, famous Italian tenor, will make his second appearance as guest soloist at this concert.

Marion Davies Film Soon to Be Released

Four M-G-M films scheduled for release soon have been rechristened. "Dulcy," with Marion Davies, has become "Not So Dumb." "Road Show" has been changed to "Happy Days." "Take It Big" to "Playing the Field" and "Lights and Shadows" to "The Woman Racket."

THE LOST ZEPPELIN THE STAGE FOR BIG FILM

"THE Lost Zeppelin," Tiffany's big special production coming to the Park next Saturday, seems in many respects a prophecy, for the great Graf Zeppelin is to be sent to one of the Poles. It now is planned to send the Graf Zeppelin to the North Polar regions, but as the South Pole offers more interesting material for exploration, the Graf's trip may be toward that region.

The South Pole is a huge continent. It is believed that under the ice there are tremendous coal, oil and other mineral fields. Should this prove true, there undoubtedly will be "airship rushes" toward the Antarctic. Comdr. Byrd, now in the Antarctic, is barely scratching the surface, and has made many valuable discoveries.

Should gold be found on the Antarctic continent, as it was in Alaska, the entire world will be thrown into turmoil, and many nations will claim the continent. In "The Lost Zeppelin," a huge dirigible starts for the South Pole and is wrecked on an icy mountain during a tremendous storm in the Antarctic. The picture is filled with romance and thrills. It is all-talking.

GOT START IN WAR SONGS

AL TRAHAN, vaudeville headliner at the Keith-Albee this week, and a native of New Bedford, served in the Marine Aviation Corps during the World War. On the side he was put to work getting up ramp entertainments. Or to be more exact, he got up one big show on his own, and in enormous success resulted in his being put in charge of ramp entertainment.

Al Trahan

Mustered out of service, the logical course for his young French-Irish boy in view of his camp theatricals, was to follow the footlights as a profession. His voice got him a job with a quartet.

VICE PROBERS TO SUMMON LIGGETT

Probe of vice conditions in Boston by the federal grand jury has progressed so far that United States Dist. Atty. Frederick H. Tarr has been instructed to summons Walter W. Liggett, magazine writer, who made startling charges.

Declaring that he will take steps to secure the presence of Liggett in Boston at the first sitting of the grand jury after the Christmas holidays, Dist. Atty. Tarr revealed that Liggett's article has already been under official consideration, by the jurors.

"If Liggett proves to have any first-hand information," Dist. Atty. Tarr said, "and if his statements are based on something more than hear-say evidence and common gossip, then interesting developments may be expected.

"I have been instructed by the grand jury to secure the presence of Liggett at the first sitting of the jury after the holidays. In his article, Liggett charges wholesale corruption of the Boston police force in the protection of bootleggers, narcotic pedlars, commercialized vice and almost all the other crimes in the calendar.

"If Mr. Liggett proves to have anything real in the way of information, the public may expect interesting developments."

Air Romance, Better Than "Chickie"

What Has Happened

MARY PATRICIA DAWN beautiful, young brunette meets the lad of her dreams in the person of Guy Elliott, aviator Guy is developing a perfect air plane in the plant of old William Bryce Happy days follow all Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce, young widow of Bryce's son, with her seductive lure.

Pat's father dies and Mrs Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest, but Guy gets them back. Bryce stops financing the plane factory. Suddenly three persons vanish, Guy, Pat and Mrs. Bryce's little boy. A note is received demanding $30,000 ransom for the boy. The plane where the money is left is watched by the police, but is taken mysteriously, presumably by the kidnapers Guy is found and arrested kidnaper of Bryce's grandson. Meanwhile, the captors of Pat and the boy flew for hours finally to land in a crash in the rocky depths of the Grand Canyon.

Now Read On

CHAPTER 42.

ONE throbbing moment Pat sat before the radio. She started at the paper where she had so carefully written on five different lines, with the symbols under each letter, "SOS — Patricia — Dawn — Grand—Canyon."

Would someone pick up the frantic call? Could a search this most cyclopean wilderness in time?

Before sunrise tomorrow, if Ace made sure of the trail, the two men would be on their way, taking the child with them. Long before this the miracle of rescue must be wrought.

Pat knew that she dared not wait. In a white-fire of realization, she knew that her life and the little boy's life would be saved only if she had courage to take that mad, desperate leap.

"I will," she told herself with the heart and the eyes almost popping from her body.

She pulled her flying suit and the parachute pack from the chest under the cabin seat. Hurry! Ace might return. She grabbed these up and without a second thought went racing across the plateau.

Throbbing and every nerve screaming with the violence of her emotion, Pat stuffed the pack under the loose rock at the base of that great red shaft of sandstone. No one would find them there. No man never would come within 100 yards of the place. Why should they? Nothing here but the abyss. They'd never dream she might jump.

For precious moments, Pat rested her hot, moist cheeks against the stone.

"Lord, I forgot the straps to tie Billy to me. Need food. Need a light."

In a calm that was the high note of hysteria, Pat stood again in the cabin. Her brain whirled; it flashed with a hundred wild suggestions. Better cut the straps from the other two parachutes. The men might try to jump after her. Why, Slim wouldn't even trust the child one hour to her care. Afraid she might run away with him—spoil her plan to the moment of triumph. He was precious—this kidnaped boy. They must deliver him safely to that other fellow before they collect the "dough."

Fear that she might in some way cheat them was Slim's only reason for taking Billy on that difficult trail to the spring. Her first dark alarm passed. Pat knew this. They'd not care if she killed herself; gave a careless shrug; perhaps, if she leaped alone.

But if she snatched the child from them, robbed them of the booty they were to receive, they'd track her to the depths of hell. Slim would dare that. He'd dare anything.

Then cautiously, like a practiced thief, Pat went through the provisions, take as much as she could possibly cram into her pockets of her flying suit, take it from the bottom and set the things back in exact order. There must be no suspicious before she'd made her getaway.

Four pieces of hardtack, two cans of deviled meat, two cans of tuna fish, two small cans of milk, half a dozen slices of bacon, the can opener, flashlight, box of matches. . . .

Reach the canyon floor alive and these supplies would keep them until the door of that blessed white farm-house settled down there in the titanic pit, opened to them. With ecstasy Pat envisioned herself and her small companion arriving at that dwelling; sinking on its threshold in radiant exhaustion.

Carefully she set the cabin to rights, tied her provisions and the straps that would bind the boy to her in her sweater and started again for the dizzying, overhanging rock.

Her hands were almost without power; they were clammy with apprehension as she jammed the hardtack and cans in the pockets of the flying suit. Button the pockets down fast. Even a stunt marvel like Jimmy Collins, with dozens of jumps to his credit, felt of lost flashlights and shattered wrist-watches.

Now everything was ready. Now all she needed was to await Billy's return; seize the first chance to wander off here with him. Once behind these irregular rock piles,

NEW MENACE FOLLOWS STORM

Shipping Out of the Fog Has to Battle Gales to Make Port

With the fog all over and sailor men about to sigh in relief a new menace struck shipping today when westerly gales held vessels in its grip just as their skippers figured on making port.

The steamer Yarmouth from Yarmouth, N. S., was hugging the line outside the Graves for several hours before she could complete her trip to India wharf. She docked six hours late with a large list of Christmas travelers.

Meanwhile twisted schedules were being revised in order to get ships back to their proper sailing days. The George Washington has swapped days with the Robert E. Lee, thereby losing its layup in Boston on Sunday as was the rule with the ex-sweating week.

The Savannah line steamers City of Birmingham, City of Atlanta and City of Montgomery were thrown off their schedules, the first two named arriving today instead of two days apart.

Many others expected to arrive from overseas with the lift in fog failed to reach port, probably due to the stiff westerly winds.

Fair, cold weather prevailed throughout the United States today and will continue for two or three days, according to the local forecaster. The minimum temperature today in Boston was 23 at 7 a. m. and the lowest in New England was 8 above at Greenville Me.

With the return of clear, sunny weather reports of storms in parts of the country began to repair the damage done by the present blast and snow storm which was one of the worst for several years in some sections.

The first of 500 linemen began to repair the damage caused by the storm in lines running the past three days as public utilities officials figured the damage to be hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Fred D Gordon, general manager of Cumberland County Power Co of Portland, said the damage to his company alone would mount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. He said the storm which raised havoc with the lines of his company was the worst in his 34 years as a public utilities official.

Hundreds of city workers in Portland were busily engaged today in clearing away the tangled mass of limbs from trees, broken by their heavy load of sleet. The damage was principally to [illegible] Oaks were famous in Portland.

More than half of these poles carried from 10 to 50 wires used for toll circuits. The untangling and placing of hundreds of local lines wrecked by falling trees and limbs also presented a task of unusual magnitude.

The first work tackled by the linemen was the repair of electric power lines whose discontinuance had plunged thousands of Portland and suburban homes, hospitals and asylums in darkness and which also ruined the closing of several large manufacturing concerns and suspension of trolley service in places.

RETIRING RED SOX PILOT AND LIKELY SUCCESSOR

WAGNER, RUEL AND COLLINS MENTIONED TO SUCCEED CARRIGAN AS SOX PILOT

By NICK FLATLEY

Boston baseball fans were busy today sighing about the retirement of Bill Carrigan and picking new managers for Bob Quinn's Red Sox.

The departure of Lewiston Bill was no surprise. It had been intimated and predicted quite generally. But the baseballs boys were surprised when President Quinn did not announce his new director, when he gave out news of Carrigan's secession.

Heinie Wagner has the lead in the guesses. He has been Carrigan's assistant for the past three years, and knows the ball club. But the boys figure that if Heinie was going to step in there, the matter would have been broadcast.

President Quinn has his plans all made. He knew in his heart that Carrigan would not come back, though he hoped up to the last minute. He admits that he will name his new manager within a few days, after he comes back from a stay with Bill in the snow-clad fastnesses of Maine.

Muddy Ruel, who used to catch for the Sox, and is now a Senator, and Shano Collins, former Boston outfielder and present Pittsfield manager, are the two leading candidates, after M. Wagner.

Muddy, one of the smartest of the big league catchers, has been ready to accept a managerial job for several years, and it is reported from Washington that he can get away if the right offer comes.

Collins, who managed Des Moines as well as Pittsfield, has been a Sox scout, and has been handling and developing the Boston youngsters during the Carrigan regime. He has been very close to the throne ever since Bill took hold, three years ago.

Boston and the American League will miss Carrigan, rightly rated as one of the shrewdest of all baseball managers. Bill has worked for the past three years with the Red Sox, and each season has seen the team improve greatly. His materials may have been good, but he had a wonderful faculty of getting surprising results from kid ball players.

GENIUS WITH HURLERS

He was a genius with pitchers, and his staff last year was one of the best in the American League, even though the team did finish in the cellar. Bill had a ball club on the way, when pressure of other business forced him to retire.

He could be one of the highest salaried men in baseball, if he cared to stay with the game, but he has large interests in Maine, the worry of baseball got on his nerves last year, and he wants more than anything else to be at home with his young family is growing up.

His baseball career reads like fiction. He was plucked from the Red Sox from Holy Cross back in 1907, when John I. Taylor had the club. John's scouts saw the makings of a great catcher in the awkward kid. A little seasoning, and Carrigan became a regular backstop.

Realizing that a defeat at the hands of McCoy will mean quite a setback, Devito declares he intends to use Bibber as a stepping stone to bigger things in the bone crushing circles. He figures a win over McCoy will put him in line for a shot at Pat Magill, Joe Malcewicz and other star grapplers. All of which means that the former Holy Cross football star is due for a hectic struggle when he tackles the Italian man mountain.

The show Wednesday night will be the final one staged in the historic Grand Opera House, which has served as a battlefield for some of the greatest grapplers of the past and present.

GREAT RUEL, who used to catch for the Sox, and is now a Senator, and Shano Collins, former Boston outfielder and present Pittsfield manager, are the two leading candidates, after M. Wagner.

offers for the past two years, but his sole interest was in the Red Sox.

He thought he might do things and go places with that team, but three bitter years convinced him that a manager without material is like a book agent without a book. He almost wrecked his health, fighting a hopeless fight. So he has retired, and baseball has lost one of its real heroes.

FINAL RETIREMENT

Carrigan's second retirement will be his last. There is a slim chance that he might come back some day as a magnate. He would o the ideal owner. But those who know him well, insist that he has had more than his fill of baseball, and will spend the rest of an active life being a leading Maine citizen.

President Quinn is due back from Lewiston tomorrow, and chances are that he will give his new director as a Christmas present to Boston fans. Contracts are being sent out now, and spring plans perfected, and the matter of a manager must be closed quickly. But, as remarked above, President Quinn has that little matter all settled in his own mind.

BASS DEFEATS TOD MORGAN

The fight was a thriller, the defending champion opening fast with a slashing two-fisted attack which swept the challenger around the ring and had Bass shaky at the bell.

Another right cross flush to the jaw sent Morgan down again, prone in the resin. Again Tod tried to get up, but this time his limbs would not answer the command of his fighting heart, and he sank back to the canvas, completely knocked out.

A brilliant last round rally that nearly gained him a knockout brought an eight-round victory to Al Ridgeway, brilliant Jersey City featherweight, over Vic Marleton, clever Englishman, in a semifinal bout after the main bout. Ridgeway had his rival helpless from rights to the chin but could not floor or finish him. Ridgeway weighed 129, Tarleton 127½.

Tom Volante, British featherweight, easily defeated Frank Marchese of New York, in an eight-round preliminary. Volante weighed 130, Marchese 128¼.

Farley Suspicious, Orders Money Held Up

New York, Dec. 21—Following the Tod Morgan-Benny Bass fight, Commissioner James Farley declared a rigid investigation of the match would be conducted and in the meantime the purses of both fighters would be held up. He indicated his belief that the match had not been fought on its merits. He summoned both Morgan and Bass to appear before the commission Tuesday with their managers.

As a general rule unless there is suspicion of a "fake" fight, the commission withholds purses of fighters only when a foul occurs. Referee Harold Barnard said a decision as high as 6 to 1 to win the crown.

Golfers Will Meet at Biltmore

New York, Dec. 21—Prescott S. Bush, secretary of the United States Golf Association, announces that the annual meeting will be held at the Hotel Biltmore on January 13 and 14. On January 10, at the Biltmore, the U. S. G. A. Green Section committee will hold its session. A number of special papers will be read, as well as a report on the work of the past year.

The annual meeting of the Women's Westchester and Fairfield Golf Association has been set for next Monday morning, preceding a luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore, according to the announcement of Mrs. John Cromelin, secretary.

GLEVELAND COP ON LOCAL MAT

A galaxy of the world's greatest heavyweight wrestlers will appear in the preliminaries to the Dick Shikat-George Hagen title match at the Mechanics Building Friday night, according to Promoter Billy Avery.

Four outstanding preliminaries have been arranged by Avery, who last Thursday night gave the fans a free show when Hagen failed to appear.

The semifinal will introduce for the first time to the New England mat public Charley Fox, a Cleveland [illegible] whose iron-man [illegible] among the wrestling [illegible] opponent to be the Hagen-Shikat winner.

In the other bouts Ronald Rouzat, one of the greatest Indian grapplers in the game, comes back to Hoston with Carl Pupello, the Lithuanian star, as his foe. Rouzat, who has been performing in championship style during the past six months, has not shown in this city in several seasons.

The second match will bring together Joe "Bull" Komar and Kolo Kwariana, the giant Russian. Action galore is promised in this battle as both men are of the sensational type. Kwariana made his New England debut here last month when he tossed Ned McGinnis with considerable ease.

The Shikat-Hagen match, originally scheduled for last Thursday, stands out as one of the greatest duels of the local indoor season. The Brooklyn "bone-crusher," who is in Boston on Wednesday, is going to put on the finishing touches of his conditioning work [illegible] here the following [illegible].

Promoter Avery stated last Thursday night from the ring that all holders of tickets would be entitled to free admission next Friday night.

League in Doldrums

Sunday baseball didn't help the New England League much this year. Nearly all the clubs are in the hole.

Statements of Quinn and Carrigan to Fans

By BOB QUINN

AFTER a real man to man talk with "Bill" Carrigan, I am satisfied that it would be next to impossible for him to continue to manage the Red Sox and at the same time give his own affairs the proper attention, and I am not selfish enough to try and prevail on him to remain with our club under such circumstances. I realize fully that any man owes more to the welfare of his family and his private business than he does to outside interests.

With the deepest regret I accepted his resignation. Our relations for the past three years have been most cordial. I found him to be one of the very finest characters with whom it has ever been my good fortune to have been associated.

By BILL CARRIGAN

I TOLD Bob Quinn if it were a case of life and death with him I would not think of leaving the Red Sox, but I do not feel that the condition is such.

On the other hand, if I continued in the baseball business I would be compelled to neglect my own affairs to the detriment of my family.

It is impossible to handle both and do justice to either, so in fairness to my growing family I feel that I owes it to them to retire from active service in the game. There is positively no other reason for my decision.

B. C. GRID STARS ON 'PERE' SIX

Two Boston College football players who'll be seen in action with the new Pere Marquette amateur hockey sextet are Johnny Marr and Harry Downes, both former English high school boys.

Marr will be the goal-tender, and Downes will team up with Captain Ed Sinsy at defense. Marr and Leon Fitzgerald were the goalers of the B. C. hockey outfit of a year ago.

It was Johnny's first year with the varsity hockey outfit, and he gave Leon a good rub for the job.

Downes, the big football center who played a great game against Holy Cross, is expected to develop into professional material on the ice. He's big and tough and a mean body checker.

He's fast enough to be a scoring threat and plays a smart game. Downes captained the hockey team at English high school and was rated as one of the best defensive players in schoolboy hockey.

B. C. Manager to Be Named Next Week

Boston College's new student manager who'll succeed Frank Reynolds is expected to be named next week. Heights authorities give no indication whatsoever of the man who'll receive the job.

Charles "Chuck" Darling is the most prominent of the candidates named. Chuck has closed up his tire business in Cambridge and has been a frequent visitor at Boston College.

Darling was an All-America football player at B. C., and also captained and starred on the baseball nine. He made eight letters in four years wearing the Maroon and Gold.

With the announcement of the new graduate manager it is expected that the coaching staff for next fall will also be given out. It has been rumored that Joe McKenney will take over the coaching job unassisted in order to cut down on expenses.

Martin Berman 'Cap to Be Run Dec. 28

Jefferson Park, New Orleans, La., Dec. 21—The Martin Berman Handicap, a new addition to the Jefferson Park list of feature events will be run December 28 for a purse of $1500. The race will be run over a distance of six furlongs and horses of all ages will be eligible.

Pere Marquettes to Play Colored Five

Pere Marquette's basketball team will play the Colored All Stars at the South Boston high school tonight. Crossman of Boston University, Gallaway of Tufts and [illegible] Grey of Harvard are on the Colored All Stars' roster.

PAULINO TO BOX VON PORAT

New York, Dec. 21—Paulino Uzcudun's first opponent of 1930 and his first fight under the management of Billy Gleason will be Otto Von Porat, Chicago heavyweight.

Tom McArdle, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, today applied for permission to stage the match on January 10, and as Von Porat by that time will be relieved of the formal suspension imposed for his alleged fouling of Phil Scott two weeks ago. The State Athletic Commission granted McArdle's request.

Out of this match may emerge Jack Sharkey's opponent for Miami, although Victorio Campolo who arrives here next week may be considered.

Also the winner of the Tuffy Griffiths-Johnny Risko 8-round next week may meet Von Porat or Paulino.

Art Shires, the great fighting first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, will shortly transfer his base of tasticuffing operations to this city, breaking in by way of Buffalo.

Shires today was granted a boxing license by the commission on request of Charley Murray, Buffalo promoter, who plans to use him next week.

Made $10,000 on Sale of Pitcher

Los Angeles made $10,000 on the sale of Pitcher Augie Walsh to the Cubs. He was bought from the Phils a year ago for $10,000 and turned over to the Cubs this fall for $20,000.

McCOY IS BACK IN THE GYM

Bob "Bibber" McCoy thrilled a throng of admirers in a local gym as he displayed his bag of mat tricks training for his finish match with Joe Devito at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday night.

McCoy, rated the most sensational young heavyweight developed in the Hub since the time Gus "Dynamite" Sonnenberg was making his spectacular climb to the throne, appears to be stronger and faster than ever despite a minor operation for a boil on his knee two weeks ago. The manner he trotted through his workout plainly indicated he will be in his old time form when he goes to the mat with the Italian champion.

Realizing that a defeat at the hands of McCoy will mean quite a setback Devito declares he intends to use Bibber as a stepping stone to bigger things in the bone crushing circles. He figures a win over McCoy will put him in line for a shot at Pat Magill, Joe Malcewicz and other star grapplers. All of which means that the former Holy Cross football star is due for a hectic struggle when he tackles the Italian man mountain.

The show Wednesday night will be the final one staged in the historic Grand Opera House, which has served as a battlefield for some of the greatest grapplers of the past and present.

Hagen and Von Elm in Tie at Pasadena

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 21 Walter Hagen, British open champion, and George von Elm, star amateur, tied for the lead in the opening day's 18-hole round of the $4000 Pasadena open golf tournament. Hagen and Von Elm turned in cards of 69, two under par.

Stroking one under par, four professionals tied for the opening round second honors with cards of 70. They were Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo.; Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J.; Denny Shute, Columbus, O., and Dave Hackney, Lawrence, Mass.

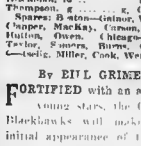
By BILL GRIMES

FORTIFIED with an army of young stars, the Chicago Blackhawks will make their initial appearance of the season at the Boston Garden tonight against the Bruins, holders of the Stanley Cup.

The Hawks have been traveling at a clean-up hap pace since the start of the season. Until the can afoul of the Detroit Cougars on Thursday they had won five consecutive games and therefore the odds are the Windsmiths to that setback.

Although the season is only about a month old already the Hawks have established a reputation for their wild and woolly brand of hockey. They are reputed to be even faster than Ottawa and rougher than the Montreals.



Bill Grimes

In Art Somers, who hails from Winnipeg, Chicago has a young man who delights in tangling up with the toughest in the league. Somers is short but stocky. In fact, he is only as tall as Cooney Weiland but, according to reports, he wields a mean stick and packs a vicious cross check. Still, more important, he plays no favorites.

On the other hand, he is one of the hardest men in professional hockey for an opponent to get a real crack at. He is very fast and a wonderful dodger but sooner or later he is going to get back into it instead of out of trouble.

At present Somers is subbing for Ripley, another Calgary product who is just beginning to hit his stride. Ripley is on the line with Ty Arbour and Frank Ingram, while Somers works with March and Couture, both of whom are holdovers from last year's outfit.

ABEL ON DEFENSE

Taffy Abel, formerly of the Rangers is on the outer defense with Dutkowski. Abel, who was a member of the 1924 United States Olympic team, has been handicapped by injuries, again, this season. He has but recently returned to action but apparently is playing up to his old time form.

Although the youngsters have played an important role in the success of the Chicago Blackhawks this season, Coach Gardiner, the clever goalie has been as much responsible for the present position of his team as the newcomers. Gardiner has only been beaten 29 times in twelve games, a sensational accomplishment under the new rules.

As this will be the first game played under the Lorne rules, which make it mandatory for the puck carrier to be the first player to enter the attacking zone, the Bruins have been practising daily to perfect this new style of play.

Although some teams have reported to be having trouble adjusting themselves to the new rules, the Bruins feel that they will be even more effective than they were when the game was wide open.

One of the most notable features of the Bruins' play under the latest code is in the forms being displayed by Harry Oliver and Perk Galbraith. Neither of these veterans have been feeling right all season and they are just now rounding into their oldtime form.

TWEATEN YOUNGSTERS

Weaning with Shorty Green, who he a wonderful spurt, has been promoted from the third to the first line Oliver and Galbraith are now setting a pace which promises to tax the wristwind brand of hockey that Dit Clapper, Cooney Weiland and Dunc Gardiner have been exhibiting this season.

Although most friendly, the rivalry between the Galbraith-Barry-Oliver line and that composed of Gainor, Weiland and Clapper is nevertheless keen. Also, it is an ideal condition for the Bruins, for everyone is out there hustling from start to finish.

The youngsters have the edge on the veterans at present, but the old stagers believe that they are ready to go and will be carrying the burden from now on, when the going is bound to be rough and rugged.

TRIO OF WINDY CITY HAWKS READY TO FLY AT GARDEN

Here are three of the flashiest members of the Chicago Blackhawks, who will make their initial local appearance of the season against the Bruins at the Garden tonight. They are, left to right, Ty Arbor and Vic Ripley, forwards, and Taffy Abel, former Ranger defense star. The visitors are the only team the Bruins haven't beaten this season, and one of the two that have stopped the Rossmen.

Smith Tells Method of Making Putts

By HORTON SMITH

United States North and South and French Professional Champion

IN a recent article, I described some fundamentals of the putting system which I now use after several years of more or less disappointing experiences. I told of my so-called "two eyed stance" when making the short ones. Now I will outline my method of actually measuring and making putts.

As to the actual stroke, I believe in striking the ball firmly. It is an axiom that in her shots in the game should be played crisply, why should not the same argument apply to the stroke with the putter? This does not imply that the club should not be taken back smoothly. Far from it.

What I mean, is that the ball should be struck firmly and deliberately, that is to say, do not strike it in a half-hearted, hesitating way.

Much has been written and said in the past about the importance of being up to the hole. Of course, no can doubt the wisdom of the old adage, "Be up"; but having said this, I would dare to suggest that there is a limit to the truth of this suggestion.

TO BE too strong is probably as bad a sin as to be too weak. Let me illustrate my argument this way: If a player has a putt of 6 to 7 yards to win a championship, and leaves it two or three inches short, he is roundly condemned and the crowd silently or audibly says: "Why wasn't the man up? How could he expect to hole out if he did not give the ball a chance?"

Supposing, however, the player—in the determination not to be short—hits the ball away beyond the hole some two or three yards. the spectators will, of course, say "At least the fellow was up."

But the question remains is he any better off two yards beyond the hole than he is two inches short of it?

My experience is that a ball hit sufficiently strong to run two or three yards beyond the hole, very rarely drops into the tin even when it hits it square in the middle. The moral effect of such a miss or of going a long way past the hole seems to me to be just as injurious as to be short. As Shakespeare wrote (I quote from a motto I've seen in two golf houses):

"We may outrun by violent swiftness
That at which we aim

SO I would say that there is a limit to giving the hole a chance beyond which it is unwise to go.

It has often been commented on by beginners that good players study the line of the putt before playing a stroke. Here again is an other virtue which by exaggeration can become a fault.

I do not believe in the theory that one ought to pry and peer up and down the line of the stroke as if one were looking at it through a combination telescopic and microscope instrument, in order to note the various graded of grass, worm-casts undulations and so on between the ball and the hole.

This sort of surveyor posing leads, in the majority of instances, to a confusion in th mino; and one eventually goes up to the ball with an obscure or blurred mental vision, and consequently the ball is not struck confidently or decisively.

IN studying the line of the putt I am of the opinion that it is always best to take a line from behind the ball to the hole and not from the hole to the ball.

Furthermore, it is a good plan to take the line by standing behind the ball and looking at the intervening ground from the natural height of the player.

That is to say, do not grovel or get down on your hands and knees until your eye level is very little above the ground itself. If you look at the ball in this way, the ground becomes foreshortened and one is apt to get a totally erroneous conception of what the actual line really is.

By looking at the line from the eye level at which the actual stroke is played the true perspective and proportion of the ground are made much clearer.

Harvard Five Beats Pratt, 34-25

Pratt put forth a fast attack and led at the end of the first half, 19 to 15, but in the second half the Crimson quintet staged a fiercer offensive and took command. Nilo, the flashy Harvard right guard, was the leading scorer.

English High Juniors Win

English high juniors won the annual interclass track and field meet by scoring a total of 82½ points, while the seniors placed second with 53, the sophomores third, 50½, and the freshmen fourth with 43 points. The field events were run off Thursday while the track events completed the meet. All events being held in the high school drill hall.

CITY TANK MEET FOR BOYS TODAY

Boy swimmers of Greater Boston will have a chance to show their wares at the City of Boston boys' meet which will be held at the Cabot St. Baths, Roxbury this afternoon. Six events are on the program and the first will be called at 4.30 p. m. This meet is the last of a series to be staged by the local park department.

Three novice events for residents of Boston are the feature races on the card. These races will bring out a lot of new talent. The 25 yards free style for boys under 14, 25 yards free style for boys under 16, and a 50 yards free style for boys under 18 years are the events listed for the novices.

The 100 yards relay race with the Boston Swimming Association, Boston Boys' Club Charlestown branch, and the Metropolitan Swimming Clubs battling for premier honors, should result in a merry setto all the way. Bill Nolan, Joe Lynch, Rus Fiddler, Jerry Murnane and Robert Cole are only a few of the stars who will race in this event.

Ten of the leading junior performers will line up for the starter's gun in the 50-yard free style. Joe Lynch, Jerry Murnane and Jim Brogan are three of the favorites to lead the field home. The 50-yard backstroke has but four entrants, Clinton Osborne, Henry Jozwick, Tom O'Brien and Frank Kiernan.

In the 100-yard free style open to all contestants, George Foran, Boys' Club, Bill Nolan and Henry Jozwick of the Boston Swimming Association, will have an edge on the rest of the entrants. The 25-yard free style for residents of Boston, under 14 years, has an entry list of 25. It will be a battle between the Roxbury and Charlestown branches of the Boys Club.

Another fine contest is looked for in the 25-yard free style for residents of Boston under 15 years of age. Jerry Murnane, Metropolitan S. C., Bob McGrath and Charlie Harrington of Roxbury and Gene Fleming and Ralph Alpert of Charlestown, are some of the strong entrants in this event.

Pro Cue League Plans Under Way

An international 18.2 balkline league, the first of its kind, is being considered by the National Billiard Association of America as a substitute for the international 18.2 balkline tournament. This was disclosed at a meeting of the billiard officials and the reason advanced was that the league, which would include eight franchises, would be a more thorough test than a tournament.

The league would operate along lines similar to those in the major leagues, with franchise holders, referees, a schedule or a special commission, league president and special rules governing the league.

East Gridders Work Out in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21—Twenty two husky young Spartans gathered from the ranks of Eastern foot all heroes were hard at work today, training for tomorrow's clash on New Year's Day with the best in the West in the annual Shrine East-West football classic.

Biz, strapping fellows hardened by a season of intercollegiate football in the east, the invaders presented an interesting spectacle to westerners.

After polishing off a huge breakfast the entire squad was taken out to Kezar Stadium, where on a green-turfed gridiron and under a bright sun they engaged in a snappy workout under the direction of Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern.

The western all-star team was complete today, with only one player of the twenty-two members unarrived. He was Tom Church of University of Oklahoma end, who is expected to arrive Saturday. Coach Dick [illegible] of the Oklahoma Aggies [illegible] the players on [illegible] and [illegible] Hanley.

The Eastern squad:

Ends—Hoeling, Alabama; Calderwood, Northwestern. Halfbacks—Glassgow, Iowa; Baith, Detroit; Bosler, Colgate. Edwards, Brown. Quarterbacks—Peters, Illinois; Yablock, Colgate. Backs—Feeney, Minnesota; Secreat, Washington and Jefferson; Bosma, Dartmouth; Stahlec, Penn State. Tackles—Nagurski, Minnesota; Gordon, Illinois; Sleight, Purdue; Twomey, Notre Dame; Gourd—Cannon, Notre Dame; Anderson, Illinois; Magar, Pennsylvania; Mooney, Georgetown. Centers—Brickson, Northwestern; Cox, Colgate.

Boston University Six Defeats Bears

Providence, Dec 21 The Boston University hockey team defeated Brown here, 5 to 3. It was the Pioneers first victory in four starts.

It was the first intercollegiate game of the season at the Rhode Island Auditorium. For a period and a half the Bruins held their own but after that the visitors showed their superiority.

Boston University apparently was on its way to a more decisive victory, but with only three minutes to play Goodale went in as a substitute for Burr Grosberg at goal. The Pioneers were leading, 5 to 1, at the time but in the next 25 seconds, Brown crashed through for two more goals at the expense of Goodale. The latter was then relieved.

ARMY WORKS ON FROZEN FIELD

La Junta, Col., Dec. 21 (AP)—The west-bound Army football special sped into the heart of the Rockies today, bringing it to the last lap of a transcontinental journey which will terminate with the West Point-Stanford grid game December 28.

As the special, carrying a contingent of 140 cadets and officers tackled the steep mountain grades trainmen saw little hope of making up 12 hours of lost time caused by middle western blizzards and frigid weather.

Inability of the train to reach Syracuse, Kan., where a stiff workout was orginally scheduled before nightfall, resulted in an emergency practice at Hutchinson, Kan., a frozen field cut the session to calisthenics, followed by a smart aprroll around the high school field.

Time for taps last night found the Cadets in a jovial mood with Saturday come fro mthe "Point" that John M Lazar brilliant center who was left behind because of scholastic difficulties, had been restored to the eligible list and was leaving by airplane to rejoin his teammates.

Florida Track Closes

Keeney Park, Fla. Dec. 21—The Florida Jockey Club has decided to close the race meeting being held here.

The club officials, meeting behind locked doors made their decision as an enthusiastic crowd yelled home a winner in the third race.

The club officials took the action it was declared in an official statement because of the threatened court action of F C Eberhart to obtain a court injunction closing the track.

The statement read: "The Florida Jockey Club, Frank A Keeney, president, operating Keeney Park, decided to close the race plant and cancel the meeting due to threatened injunctive proceedings contemplated by F O Eberhart, and other reformers who see in racing not the clean sport that it is, but a violation of the state statutes relative to gambling.

"The [illegible] of the Florida Jockey Club has passed a resolution closing the track for the meeting and until such time as the fair-minded citizens of the state of Florida shall [illegible] their legislators pass such [illegible] parimutuel system of betting.

The announcement was made by Colonel E. Edd [illegible] president and manager of the club.

He said at one time when the track would close, but it was expected this order would go in effect next week.

WRAY NAMED PENN COACH

Philadelphia, Dec. 21—J. R. Ludlow (Lou) Wray, line coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team for the last seven seasons, has been named as head coach by the football committee of the Pennsylvania Athletic Council.

Wray succeeds Lou Young, who recently resigned to become assistant to the chairman of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic Council.

It was also announced that Rodney F. Hutchinson has resigned as chairman of the football committee and that Lou Young has been appointed as chairman to succeed him. Hutchinson remains chairman of the council of athletics.

It was stated that Hutchinson for some time had been wanting to be relieved of the football chairmanship and found the present the best opportunity for so doing. It was denied that Wray's election as football coach had anything to do with Hutchinson's resignation.

Jack Butler, coach of the 1929 Penn State freshman eleven, announced the resignation, declaring that he "will not work under Wray."

Big Green Five Beats Fordham

Closing out the first half with the score at eight-all, Irving was never more than one point separating the two teams for almost the entire second period. Right near the finish Coach Dolly Stark's Hanover five increased its margin to two points at 20-17, but Fordham came back with a field goal in the last minute of the game.

By losing the Maroon received its first setback on its home court in three years, sustained its third defeat in three seasons and its fifth in four campaigns, and enabled the Green quintet to annex its fourth straight victory.

Somerville Eleven Honored at Theater

Waldheim Defeats Wolfe at Billiards

R. C. Waldheim of Norwood defeated B. M. Wolfe of Boston, 150 to 138, in the New England class B billiard championship at the Twentieth Century rooms. Waldheim had a high run of 14, Wolfe of 11.

The next match in the round robin will be played Monday night when Tom Smith of Wollaston meets Arthur Weeks of Newton. The winner of the tournament goes into the class A championship at B. A. A. next month.

CONTANT TO RETURN TO ICE TONIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21—Elezar "Ponzi" Contant, stocky defense man of the Boston Tigers who has been out of the game for three weeks, will return to the defense against Philadelphia Arrows here tonight.

"Ponzi" who has been the spark plug of the Hub team, has been sadly missed and his return undoubtedly will increase the strength of the Bengals particularly from the defensive viewpoint.

In past games the team has been scoring plenty of goals but has been somewhat porous defensively.

With Ponzi back fresh, defensemen can be kept on the job all of the time and the team is certain to be more cohesive in checking opposition attacks.

The Philadelphia game will be the first of a two-game road trip. On Sunday the Tigers will be in New Haven to play the fourth game of their season's series with the Eagles of that city.

McEWAN OUT AS OREGON COACH

New York, Dec 21—Captain John J. McEwan, former all-American center and head football coach at the University of Oregon, for the past four years has been fired.

McEwan, with a contract carrying him through 1930 has been relieved in spite of his willingness to continue and after one of Oregon's best seasons, ending with a tie for the Pacific Coast Conference title.

"My only trouble was that the president of the university and I could not agree on whom to substitute at critical moments," Captain McEwan said.

An apparent attempt was made to show that as a former Army player and coach, he attempted undue favor in supplying West Point with motion pictures of the Stanford-Oregon game, designed to sell the Cadets on the Thanksgiving engagement at Palo Alto. No one at West Point saw the pictures, a connection with McEwan's part in this incident resulted in an exchange of telegrams between Army and Stanford coaches.

McEwan will remain in the East. He announced plans to conduct a football coaching school next spring and summer courses but also may seek a new job as head coach.

The former Army star has been mentioned as a possible successor to Major Frank Cavanaugh as Fordham Major Cavanaugh, in spite of a successful year, has not yet earned for 1930 and Jack Chevigny, graduate manager, Jack Coffey and nothing could be done about the coaching situation until after the first of the year.

Polo Twin Bill at Armory Tonight

The 101st Artillery polo trio makes its first league appearance in a class A match against 110th Cavalry of Commonwealth Armory tonight. Earlier in the season the infantry showing in the indoor league, faces the fast Harvard seconds in the other match.

The 101st artillery trio has been playing together for a longer time than the cavalry unit and is expected to win. Behind the 13th Cavalry, which was routed last Saturday by the Lancers, 10½ to 1, will probably will be Col. Dan Needham at No. 1, Maj. Charles Furber, No. 2, and Lieut. Col. Reed and R. Taylor as spares. The Crimson seconds are expected to be W F Luton at No. 1, Nelson W Kimball, No. 2, and H. L. Nichols, back.

This lineup spiked the 51st Brigade, 18 of 10 to 1, in last Saturday's opening class B contest.

Sonny's Kentucky Debut a Success

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 21 (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, former world's wrestling champion claimant, defeated Boris Dempsteff in straight falls, 10 to 0, here tonight. It was his first Kentucky appearance. Sonnenberg made little use of his famous flying tackle.

Star Pitt End to Make Coast Trip

Pittsburgh, Dec. 21—Assistant Coach Alex Stevenson denied reports that Joe Donchess, All-American end on the University of Pittsburgh's football team, might be left behind when the Panther goes to the Coast to play the University of Southern California New Year's Day.

Stevenson said reports that Donchess would not make the trip because of scholastic difficulties were groundless.

Fast Finish Gives Emanuel Verdict Over Gagnon

CLISBY AND FLYNN OTHER WINNERS

By JACK CONWAY

ARMAND EMANUEL was obliged to make a whirlwind finish in the last three rounds to gain the decision over Jack Gagnon in their 10-round bout at the Boston Garden.

Gagnon's heavy punches caused the Coast fighter plenty of trouble in the early stages of the contest.

Jack Conway

Jack scored with the wallop shortly after the second session got underway. Emanuel's long range type of warfare had enabled him to win the honors in the first frame. Armand continued the same tactics at the start of the second frame.

Suddenly Gagnon lunged forward and let fly with a short left hook to the jaw. The punch landed with crushing effect. Emanuel's eyes became glassy and he fell into a clinch to save himself from further punishment.

The men wrestled at close quarters and both went to the canvas. Emanuel was still groggy when he regained his feet. Gagnon chased him from corner to corner. Just before the bell Jack tired from his own efforts and Emanuel rallied brilliantly, scoring with left and right hand punches to the head.

Emanuel was weary in the third frame, but his superior ability as a boxer enabled him to keep at long range and outscore Gagnon. The Coast warrior relied upon a straight left to the face to keep him out in front.

Emanuel also had the margin in the fourth and fifth sessions. In the sixth round, Gagnon opened with a driving body attack. Emanuel tired and was a target for Gagnon's punches.

FROM that point in the bout, Emanuel's speed and superior boxing skill kept him out front. The Coast warrior opened up during the last three rounds and did some effective two-handed fighting.

Gagnon, however, was always dangerous and Emanuel showed plenty of respect for the Boston warrior's terrific punching ability.

ARTHUR FLYNN of Lawrence scored a decisive victory over Willie Peter, New London kayo artist, in a ten-round setto, which went on after the main event. Flynn kept popping Oetser with the left hand, while the New London battler wasn't able to land with any of his wild right-hand swings. Flynn carried every round.

In the other feature bout, Neil Clisby, colored heavyweight from the Coast, who is under the management of Alex MacLean, was declared the winner over Tony Galento at the end of the seventh round. Galento was bleeding freely from the nose as a result of Clisby's right-hand attack.

Clisby is a good boxer and a clean, sharp puncher. He will lack the average run of heavyweights. MacLean, however, will experience difficulty in getting any of the outstanding heavyweights to risk an exchange of blows with his sturdy warrior.

WILLIAM F. CAREY, president of Madison Square Garden Corporation and a director and officer of the Boston Garden, attended the bouts here. He was in Boston for the purpose of attending a director's meeting. He stated that the business transacted was of a routine nature.

Carey conferred with Jack Sharkey and Johnny Buckley. He informed them that the Garden intends to go through with its annual heavyweight feature at Miami, Fla., in February. Carey declared that Sharkey's opponent will not be selected until the first of the year.

The selection rests between Victorio Campolo, who will return to the United States in another week, and Tuffy Griffith, who clashes with Johnny Risko at the New York Garden next Friday night.

Carey stated that he recently had dinner with Jack Dempsey in New York. He admitted that Dempsey failed fight, but he asserted he didn't approach him on the question of whether he would attempt a comeback next year.

Carey stated he realized that a Sharkey-Dempsey bout would restore the million dollar gate to the boxing game. Carey returned to New York on the midnight.

Hunter Shoots 39, 38 to Take Title

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 21—James T. Hunter of North Adams, Mass., won his second tournament of the season here today when he captured the final of the members' event here, defeating Eric D. Thomson of New York, 2 up.

Hunter and Thomson each went out in 39. Thomson could not equal Hunters pace on the homestretch. The Bay Stater scored 38, finishing the last four holes in two under 4s.

Hakoah Eleven Plays Pawtucket

The main soccer attraction in New England this afternoon will be staged in the Lonsdale Avenue ground, Pawtucket, where the reinvented Thrashers entertain the famous all-Jewish combination, Hakoah, in an Atlantic Coast league contest.

Strengthened by the acquisition of Jock McArthur and Bob Fleming, former Woodsies, and Jimmy Doyle and Jerry Best, formerly of Fall River, the Pawtucket eleven is strong Providence tackles the Giants at Starlight Park, New York, and Bethlehem and Brooklyn meet on Steel Field, in the other pro league conflicts scheduled today.

Champigny Stops Grocia in Sixth

Worcester, Dec. 21—Billy Champigny, Worcester, won on a technical knockout in the sixth round over Jimmy Grocia, also of Worcester, in the feature bout of an all-star card here.

In the other bouts Tony Ross, Syracuse, was knocked out by Jack Perry, Millbury, in the third round. Johnny Dundee, Milford, was knocked out by Jackie Newman, Worcester, in the third round, and Ero Peterson, Spencer, won a technical knockout over Manuel Burgess, Providence, in the fifth round. Jack Dudley, Worcester, won on a technical knockout in the second round over Young Firpo, Providence.

Harvard Six Beats University Club

Frank Stubbs' sub Harvard hockey forward gave the Crimson a victory over the University Club at the Arena by a 4 to 3 score. His goal in overtime settled the issue, while a previous score in the first period put Harvard in the running.

Albert Bigelow, former defense man for the Crimson who now holds down with his brother a similar berth on the ex-collegiates, scored twice also.

Suburban League Approves Officials

Baseball and football officials for next season were approved by the suburban League facility managers and coaches at the meeting at the Commander Hotel in Cambridge last night. It was also voted that the selections and assignments be left to the secretary of the league.

Tom Hines of Brookline made a motion that Somerville and Brookline be notified to open their schedules in 1931 on the first Saturday in October. The J-5 ball was also adopted as the official ball. Henry Lynch of Rindge Tech made a motion that visiting squads be properly identified when attending other league team's games.

AMATEUR RING STARS CLASH

More than 50 amateur boxers will crowd the ring in Mechanics Building tonight, and more than 3000 fight fans will gather there to watch the third elimination tournament in the New England Golden Glove championship.

The journey is being staged by St. Joseph's T. A. S. under the direction of the famous "Father Bill" Cuddy, and has attracted more attention among the boxers and the fans than any tournament ever held in the history of amateur boxing in this part of the country.

At six o'clock last night, there were 54 entrants in tonight's meeting, and by 7:30 tonight, when the show will start, it is certain that more than 60 will answer the gong. Every class is crowded to the limit with entrants.

GIRL PUTS QUESTIONNAIRE ON WEDDED LIFE

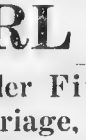
Consider Finances Before Marriage, Says Expert

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Q[illegible] DEAR MRS. FAIRFAX: I have [illegible] one who I [illegible] How would you answer questions like these?

"DEAR MRS. FAIRFAX:

I am [illegible] three years [illegible] age, with [illegible] an office [illegible] girl for [illegible] my age [illegible] have to [illegible] boxes in [illegible] office [illegible] married [illegible] who [illegible] every day to talk over [illegible] topics of the day.



"We got started on the marriage question and had quite an argument. None of us thought the same. So I am writing to you. There are six of us argued about—

"1—What [illegible] pect from a [illegible] home? Money [illegible] give [illegible] his power to [illegible]

"2—Should [illegible] she is [illegible] should she [illegible]

"3—Should [illegible] fore consider [illegible] young man [illegible] standing? Would the [illegible] gold dig [illegible]

"4—Is it [illegible] to be up at six [illegible] to get his breakfast [illegible] prepare [illegible] before and [illegible]

"5—Should [illegible] ford it have a maid for the [illegible] or have a woman [illegible] week to help her out with the housework?

"What is the [illegible] a young couple will make up today, say, in a city with a population of 500,000?

"I would very much appreciate hearing from [illegible] are very anxious to [illegible] who knows something about this answer our questions.

[illegible] tude I expect you are not in love. For when a woman falls in love there remains little tendency to consider selfish claims, and her feelings toward her husband is not a reason that could be found in the "gimmie," as it is a thoughtful question of whether she will be able to be a good wife and give him a good home.

It is notable for a young man and young woman who contemplate marriage to talk over matters frankly and come to an understanding. But you may be sure, if they have character and love for each other, this heart-to-heart talk will not take the form of demands on either side but will mean only a mutual adjustment to save misunderstandings later on.

[illegible] are cases where a young man has a great talent for outside work and little talent for home making and keeping house. If she wishes to have a maid come in [illegible] house while she earns [illegible] and keeping house, [illegible] other may be adjusted satisfactorily.

[illegible] are cases also where the [illegible] come is so limited at the start that it is necessary for the wife to help out by earning money. And she may do so [illegible] without neglecting her home? [illegible] quite these conditions today as always. The [illegible] is duty and privilege is to [illegible] husband's big wife and [illegible] and the wife's is to care [illegible] the home and children. [illegible] is founded on this principle [illegible] a man's wife [illegible] wishes to give his wife every [illegible] in his power to make her [illegible] And it is equally true [illegible] a worthwhile young woman [illegible] no motive in all she does [illegible] her husband's happiness and well-[illegible]

I know of one husband who insists on getting his own breakfast so that his wife can complete her beauty sleep.

The amount of income necessary to begin married life depends on the style of living to which the couple are accustomed and their ability to adjust themselves to circumstances.

Pat Knew She Would Not Turn Yellow

Miss Pat -:- Thrilling Romance of Airways

sank on the flying suit, shielded the little trusting youngster; strap the pack to her back and the buckle tight to her chest. All she needed now was the time for this. And the heart to use it the inch, unfaltering heart.

She walked out on the rock and for a split second glanced down the sheer, abysmal precipice.

But if she spread it all open beforehand, it might drag—might catch on that ledge down there just as she plunged.

"No! Foolish to open it," she thought, stifled with the image of herself and Billy hanging for one ghastly moment; hanging in midair. "I'll pull the cord as soon as I'm clear of the cliff. I've done that often enough. There's 3000 feet to the bottom."

She walked back toward the plane. She paused every few feet, and with vast, strained effort drew air into her lungs. This kept her from fainting; this kept her heart from suffocating. She could hear its hot, slow thump.

Suddenly she felt her strength collapse; she felt her expanding heart thump-thump, slower—weaker. And her head spinning around, very large, very light, spinning in this unerowding fog.

Barbara Bryce leaped from a plane. She wasn't afraid. Guy had many times leaped; part of his training at Brooks and Kelly. They thought nothing of it. Only the Yellow Streak, who, fearing death so much brings it upon himself, only such weakness fall when the jump must be made.

Thoughts raced through her brain of the old home scenes. Guy sitting with her in the soft moonlight. Could she fail now? Could she show the yellow streak? He would be the first to condemn.

Pat bolstered her courage with thoughts like this. She summoned images of Guy and of her own father to strengthen her. She was a strong swimmer and would buck the tide. How often Richard had inspired her to unguessed efforts with a wing like this. Expecting the high, fine, valiant deed, and expecting it so shimingly, had won it.

Pat kept his brave gallant face before her even when death at his elbow. Richard had not faltered; he had reached a hand to his wife as though he would uplift her—as though he would uplift. She recalled this last beautiful gesture of her father. She clung to it.

If Richard were near now, how he would cheer her on! She felt his hand as so often he had rubbed it along her neck, saw his blue teasing eyes wink from under the curled, sandy lashes; fancied his happy voice:

"Go to it, Pat! My Pat—you can!"

She felt cooled and calmed. She sat here, stepping herself in remembered phrases that through 19 years had goaded her ever on—ever up—

Suddenly she sprang to her feet. Ace was coming across the stony levels. He saw Pat and waved.

"Where's Sam?"

"You found a trail out?" Pat asked, standing quiet—ignoring his hot, pressing embrace. Any moment Slim would return—little to fear—get all the information she could.

"Who is Sheik?"

Ace gave a soft, thick laugh

"Shoy, don't you know Sheik? Thash my name. Pretty lil skirts like Pat call me that. No lishen—you gotta play ball with me, Pat. When are we starting away?"

"Thash the stuff, Pat! Thash the question—to be or not to be! Who shays that? I know fellow called Bill—Bill Shakespeare Hasha—to be or not to be! Whish'll you have, lil one?"

"Your partner means to leave me behind?"

"Thash what he means to do wish you, lil one. Cold egg, awful cold egg—thash Slim."

"Lishen—you go an hide. Sheik'll shave you. Gonna come back and get you. Play ball with me, Pat?"

"Yes—what will you do with Billy?"

"Gotta hand him over first. Afterwards Sheik'll show you Pat, you'll shee Sheik can find the way. Wait'll you shee that trail!"

"Where will you hand Billy over? To whom?"

"Queer egg named Dum-dum wants him. Awful queer egg named Dum-dum."

"Why does he want him?"

Pat shuddered

"Lishen—don't shay a word to Slim. Here he comes—but tonight I'm gonna make him drunk—then I'm gonna shave you, Pat—"

Billy saw Pat He ran toward her She caught her hand. She thought, burning

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE are ructions in the Allen family. Hitherto Mother Allen has ruled the roost. She has ruled it lovingly, but firmly, with the profound conviction that Mother Knows Best. And now the three Allen young sisters, ranging in age from 18 to 25, and all working, are disputing this theory.

They say mother's a dear, but she doesn't get with it. They say that her ideas are old-fashioned, that they work in this modern world . . . that she "doesn't understand what it's all about."

Elsie Robinson

Naturally, Mrs Allen is distracted and indignant. What nonsense to say she doesn't understand! Wasn't she young once herself? Of course, she understands! She accepted her mother's guidance when she was young! What will they amount to if they won't listen to their own mother?

THEY PROBABLY WILL AMOUNT TO MUCH MORE THAN THEY DID LISTEN TO MOTHER.

hat's a hard answer to give a distracted mother, but it's a true one. The average mother of a modern, working girl or boy knows far less about the world in which the latter lives than she should.

Grandmother might have known what was best for mother, for life had changed but little since her own girlhood. But the world has moved faster within the last 25 years than within the last 250. This present world is no more like the world of mother's youth than it is like Mars.

Mother wants her girls to "be like she was." She wants them to be as innocent, docile, retiring and sentimental as her mother taught her to be. But the modern girl who tried to enter life with that sort of technique would be doomed to tragedy. Her associates would pity her, her boss would fire her, her children would laugh at her and she'd bore her husband to tears.

Girls, in mother's youth, prepare for marriage. Girls today, prepare for LIFE. It's an entirely different matter. The twentieth century girl must know her world and must know how to handle herself in that world She must be a CITIZEN as well as a female.

AS A CONSEQUENCE, NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN A MOTHER CAN LEARN MORE FROM HER WORKING CHILD THAN IT CAN LEARN FROM HER.

THE CHILD IS CURRENT THE MOTHER ISN'T . . . SHE HASN'T KEPT HERSELF SO

The working boy or girl of today needs a mother's love, sympathy and understanding as much as younger children of every age. But they'll seek these things IF THE MOTHER HAS THE GOOD SENSE TO ACT THE PART OF THE COMRADE RATHER THAN THE COMMANDER.

YOU'LL GET FURTHER WITH YOUR CHILDREN, MOTHER ALLEN, BY ASKING THEIR ADVICE THAN YOU EVER WILL BY FORCING YOURS ON THEM.

Last Minute Christmas Shopping

By MRS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

I shall have to do my shopping at the last minute. Will you please give some suggestions for last minute gifts that I can buy for different members of the family and for the [illegible]

Thank you.

ONE advantage of last minute shopping is that it can not be bought until the last minute and therefore flowers should not be used for gifts at this time. Some gifts for lovers of [illegible] books, letter paper (it must be white or light gray or scotch [illegible] and large in size), cuff links, dress sets, studs, waistcoat buttons, vest chains, watches (pocket or wrist), a gold or silver pencil or fountain pen, card cases, razor sets, long silver key chains or short gold key chains, gold lip rings, gold key case with key to be cut later, military brushes, gold knife toilet sets, soft felts or wallets, umbrellas [illegible] be sent to bring an exquisite suggestion of your good wishes.

And always when the gifts are unmentioned comes the thought of the ever-ready books.

For men here is a list to choose from: Books, letter paper (it must be white or light gray or scotch [illegible] and large in size), cuff links, dress sets, studs, waistcoat buttons, vest chains, watches (pocket or wrist), a gold or silver pencil or fountain pen, card cases, razor sets, long silver key chains or short gold key chains, gold lip rings, gold key case with key to be cut later, military brushes, gold knife toilet sets, soft felts or wallets, umbrellas [illegible]

An especially lovely gift now adays, when pictures are not used much for room decorations, is a piece of antique (or a copy of antique) silk for the wall or for the table.

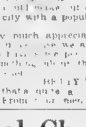
"Last minute" presents for the children are books, boxes of children's writing paper, gloves, [illegible] book an address book a string of small pearls, a workbag or sewing bag, a fan, silk stockings, a bud-vase.

Real Christmas Gift

HOLLY FRUIT CAKE

(62)

A FOUR-POUND [illegible] which will keep [illegible] summer, is a real gift, and when the top is decorated with a holly wreath made of candied cherries and succulent green citron "leaves," it is more than professional in appearance.



Martha Lee.

This cake will be shipped in a tin box, so that it will be ready for storage to acquire the necessary "ripening."

HOW TO PACK THE GIFTS

A shallow metal box which will hold only one layer, is most satisfactory for shipping. The decorated tin boxes sold in variety stores for 10 cents are quite attractive in size, or you can make them yourself, with a bit of paint or sealing wax. Lace paper doilies to fit the box are sold for 10 cents a dozen, and the fluted bon bon cups carefully salvaged from boxes of purchased candy add a professional air to the entire package.

The top layer should be covered with a piece of wax paper, cut to fit and covered with a doily. A sprig of holly or a greeting card, laid on top, lends the finishing touch, and of course, there will be tissue paper and ribbon! The fruit cake and cookies must be packed [illegible] in enough paper so that there is no danger of crumbling. Extra spaces should be stuffed with crushed paper. The fruit cake should be carefully wrapped in wax paper, and sent in a metal box for storage. If the glass of conserve is mailed, it should be packed in excelsior or paper cut into shreds.

Faithfully yours,

MARTHA LEE.

¼ lb. candied cherries.
½ pkg. sliced citron.
½ pkg. sliced candied orange peel.
3 eggs.
½ c. butter or other fat.

Chop fruit and nuts. Measure flour, soda, spices and sift over fruit and nuts. Cream fat, add sugar and beaten eggs. Add floured fruits alternately with grapejuice and honey.

Add melted chocolate last. Bake in a loaf pan, which has been lined with greased paper and oiled, in a slow oven (250 deg. F.) for about 4½ hours.

Household Hints

To keep the yolks of raw eggs fresh for several days drop unbroken into a bowl of cold water.

If a little lemon juice is added to the water used for mixing pastry it will make the pastry lighter and remove the taste of fat or lard.

A weak solution of turpentine poured down the water pipes once a week will drive away water bugs.

AUNT NANCY was not sure that Jean would know what the letter M stood for With radios and victrolas it is so easy to hear and absorb music and never get acquainted with music reading or writing.

But the youngster looked on with interest when Aunt Nancy went over to the piano and showed Jean how the sheet of printed music told her what to play or sing.

Some of the other club members who were making quilts for older children were delighted that Nancy had chosen music instead of mouse or mustard for the letter M

As they discussed the number of words which began with M they followed the usual procedure of work.

First they cut the squares from the paper. Next they laid the 6½-inch squares of white gingham over the pattern and outlined it with a sharp pointed hard lead pencil.

When this was done they pasted the square of paper onto a piece of light weight cardboard or tagboard. They dried this under pressure. Then they chose colored material, fast colored soft gingham for the body of the notes.

One woman made hers of purple and one of green, a third chose soft henna color One member tried black but decided she did not like the striking contrast that resulted. There was no other black in the quilt and she believed that this would make too strong a note or notes of black. After the pattern was dry the body of the note was cut out. The two notes are exactly the same shape and size so one pattern did for both

In cutting the pieces an allowance of one-quarter inch was made on all around

After the two notes were cut the edge was turned under one-quarter inch This was basted and pressed. The notes were pinned and basted in place on the white block Then the pieces were appliqued in fine, slanting invisible hemming stitch.

The stems of the notes and the letter were embroidered in fast colored embroidery cotton

The letter M was embroidered in the same color of fast color cotton as had been used for the twelve previous letters. This of course depended upon the color chosen for the connecting stripe

The finished block was laid aside to wait a later time when it would be joined to the I block which comes directly above it Between the two of course, is the connecting band of white and colored gingham

The Truth

ABOUT AN EXQUISITE WOMAN

By ELINOR GLYN

GIRLS, do you know what the word "exquisite" indicates? The dictionary gives several meanings, but the best is "the highest excellence"

It means the refinement of every charm and every beauty, the highest note of perfection. I want you to be "exquisite." Thousands of girls are physically attractive They don't, if all types just because they are beautiful. Then, when this fades, it nothing is left to arouse romance—or even set as a new stimulant for the reawakening of the hunting instinct, these poor thousands lose out.

Elinor Glyn

The men they attracted so powerfully for so short a time, pass on, disillusioned

But, if with this strong physical charm they possess as well "exquisiteness," their reign goes on for the rest of their lives.

To be exquisite you must be dainty in every way. Apart from mental daintiness which means avoiding of all vulgarity of speech and manner, you must be physically dainty.

You must never let yourself be down even when you are tired and long just to "let go" and not bother about your appearance.

Whether anyone is looking on or not you must be dainty for your own self respect. Wear the prettiest garments when you are at home alone, or with your most intimate friends

Get into the habit of absorbing a picture of you as being always beautiful and attractive

If you do this continually and live up to it, you will become so in reality

DEBUTANTES' CALENDAR FOR JAN.

THE DEBUTANTE'S SEASON is by no means over although after the 11th of January there is but one party, according to the calendar so thoroughly kept by Miss Mary O. Porter of River st. There are seven dances and two luncheons but strangely enough to date there is not one tea scheduled. The first affair of the month is the luncheon on January 3 at which Mrs Benjamin A. Kaiser of Marlborough st. is presenting her daughter, Miss Mary Kaiser, who is home from Vassar for the holiday season. It is to take place at the Hotel Somerset, as is also the dance in the evening given by Mr. and Mrs. Alvah H. Pierce of Boylston st., Brookline, to introduce Miss Rosamond Pierce. The following week opens with a dance, the evening of the 6th, at the Winchester Country Club, when Miss Constance Greco will make her bow to society. Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Greco, parents of the debutante are to be the hosts.

MR. AND MRS. CHANDLER HOVEY of Hammond st., who presented their daughter Miss Elizabeth de P. Hovey, at a tea earlier in the season, are entertaining for her at a dance at the Hotel Somerset, January 7. Miss Virginia Rice, noted tennis star, as well as popular debutante, is having her "coming out" at the same popular Commonwealth ave. hotel the next night, the affair given for her by her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rice of Marlborough st. in honor of Miss Ann B. Frothingham, whose debut was made at a dance the first of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Merril Griswold are giving a dinner-dance at their Marlborough st. residence, January 9.

A LUNCHEON IS THE OCCASION for the presentation of Miss Rosamond Hutton, the second daughter Mr and Mrs. Herbert H. Hutton of Beacon st., to be introduced to society. The Algonquin Club has been chosen as the scene of this function. That night, Mr. and Mrs Edgar C. Rust of Reservoir ave., Chestnut Hill, are honoring four of the season's attractive buds at a dinner-dance at their home. This coterie consists of Miss Elizabeth Wheeler of Suffolk rd., Chestnut Hill, Miss Elizabeth Hovey of Hammond st., Miss Kathelyn Watson of Spooner rd., Chestnut Hill, and Miss Nancy Hollowell of Reservoir ave.

FOLLOWING THIS THERE IS a long pause while the Harvard students are so busy over their mid-year exams that they are unable to attend social festivities. Therefore the last affair scheduled for the first month in 1930 is the dance Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Farrington of Newton, are giving in honor of Miss Kathleen Chase of Fairfield st., on January 25.

MISS RACHEL DERBY SMITH popular Junior League and Vincent Club member is to be married to Friederich Franz Graf Grote of Varchentin, Mecklenburg, Germany, early in the new year. The engagement was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs Henry Pickering Smith of Commonwealth ave. Miss Smith attended both Miss May's school here and Miss Wright's boarding school in Bryn Mawr. Herr Grote is the son of Otto and Alice Graf Grote of Pernitz Seitzerland. His mother was a Van Burgen of Buffalo

THE LUNCHEON WHICH Dr. and Mrs Edwin Seaver of Bedford st., New Bedford were to have given today for their daughter, Miss Jennet Seaver, has been cancelled Miss Seaver is a freshman at Smith College, but is at present home for her vacation. Dr and Mrs Seaver are having a house party this week-end and on Monday evening they are entertaining for their daughter at dinner. About 30 have been invited to this affair, among those from Boston is Miss Priscilla Bramhall. After dinner the hosts will take their guests on to Thomas Lowell's dance

MISS ELEANOR DRINKWATER is leaving Boston tomorrow for Florida, to be the guest in Palm Beach of Mr and Mrs. Sherwood N. Pinkerton. It was in September that her engagement to the son of the family Edward G Pinkerton of Toledo, O., was announced. Miss Drinkwater is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Drinkwater of Braintree and Cohasset. She made her debut in October, 1926, and is a member of the Junior League. On her return to Boston, Miss Drinkwater will join her parents and her sister, Mrs William B. Rice, 2d, for a cruise to the West Indies. The party will leave Boston on January 9.

MR. AND MME. HENRI GUY were the guests of honor this noon at luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. Tucker Burr of Commonwealth ave. At 3 o'clock M. Guy speaks to the Boston and Cambridge group of l'Alliance Francaise at the Copley-Plaza. As M. Guy was an exchange professor at Harvard at one time he needs no introduction to Boston people. He is, at the present time, president of Grenoble University. He is a well known authority on French poetry of the sixteenth century. One of his recent publications is on this subject.

TOMORROW NIGHT MR AND MRS. CARL TILDEN KELLER of Brimmer st. are giving a dinner in honor of Sir Aurel Stein, world famous archaeologist. Sir Aurel has been giving a Lowell Institute lecture course here and has been received with great enthusiasm His talks have been on the unearthing of treasures buried for centuries in the sands of Turkestan.

MR AND MRS WILLIAM DEFORD BEAL of Chestnut Hill and their two oldest boys are going to spend Christmas with Mrs Beals parents in New York. Mr. and Mrs Louis Morris Starr. Mrs. Beal will remain there to attend the tea being given by Mrs Howard White Starr, Miss Starr and Miss Natalie Delapina Starr at their home on East 73rd st., on Saturday, December 28.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made of the engagement of Miss Gennetta Wells to Robert Martin Perry Kennard, by her father, Wellington Wells, of Bay State rd., at a luncheon at the Union Club this noon. Miss Wells' aunt Mrs James Lawson Kerrick, of Washington, D C., received with father and daughter tomorrow a small tea is being given at the Wells' residence. At this affair Mrs. Orville Davis (Elizabeth Dana Wells), a sister of the brideselect, will pour, as will also Miss Mimi Eskridge Boss of Beacon st., and Miss Mary H Arbenz of Wheeling, West Virginia. Miss Wells' father was at one time president of the Massachusetts senate and her grandfather was the late Justice David J. Brewer of the United States Supreme Court She prepared for Smith College, where she was graduated in 1927, at Miss Lee's school. She toured in Paris at the Sorbonne last year

Mr. Kennard is the son of Mr and Mrs. Frederick H. Kennard of Dudley rd., Newton Center and a grandson of the late Martin Perry Kennard of Boston Mr. Kennard attended Browne and Nichols school and is a member of the class of 1926 at Harvard. He belongs to the Phoenix, B. K. Speakers, Hasty Pudding and the Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York. Mr. Kennard is associated with a well-known Boston brokerage firm.

TWO of the season's buds are making their bows at teas today. One of these is Miss Lucile Harvey, whose party, given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert A. Harvey, is taking place at her home on Spooner rd., Chestnut Hill. Miss Caroline Hall is superintend those serving in the dining room. Miss Harvey was president of the student body at Beaver Country Day school last year. This winter she is a special student at Miss Madeira's school in Washington, D. C.

The other debutante to be presented today is Miss Hope Mary Potter, who is being introduced by her parents at their Newton Center residence from 4 to 7. She has chosen to wear a gown in princess style, of madonna blue taffeta, with which she is carrying pink butterfly roses. The charming coterie of pourers is in charge of Miss Mary Sabine of Chestnut Hill and those assisting her include: Miss Alice Potter and Miss Alene Potter Mrs Frederick Taylor Potter of Waban, Miss Elinor Coues, Miss Lavina Sabine, Miss Margaret Warren, Miss Betty Mather, Miss Carolyn Day, Miss Frances Shea, Miss Phyllis Vose, Miss Catherine Brown, Miss Harriet Fitz, Miss Caroline Crosby Miss Leona Hartstone, Miss Frances Cook of Syracuse, Miss Joan Carter, Miss Betty Fitzpatrick and Miss Harriet Arnold.

WOMEN URGED TO LET BABY CREEP

MOTHERS play with your babies. Let them creep. Get down on your knees and play with your children

Such activity will not only prove a real tonic to your growing son or daughter but keep your own figure erect and perfect as it should be

Don't scrub the old-fashioned floors of housework. Remember the same back bending duties developed your sturdy ancestors, accounting the disappearance of the ancestral traits Ernest Hermann director of the Boston University Sargent School of Education, urged mothers to make their home livable for children, and especially adaptable to creeping young ones.

Let them creep.

He must be sounded repeatedly in order unusual talk on "The Reason of Posture to Health" before members and guests of the Boston City Federation, at their open health day

Good posture is character-building he said It develops the mind, the body and the character It really gives you a different perspective on life, to stand up straight and let your rising inner self like a tower to romantic heights.

Mayor and Mrs. Nichols arrived during the talk and the city's chief executive showed keen interest in the words of the health expert and the active demonstration of Sargent School students.

PRESENTS FLAG

Following the talk and in the course of 200 members and guests, Mayor Nichols, as a beau geste, before leaving office presented this group of women's clubs with a silk flag of the city

That Mayor Nichols still has uncompleted plans for the improvement and beautification and social, spiritual and institutional progress of Boston, was quite obvious. That he seems to carry on the programs at a later date, he insinuated. At any rate Mayor Nichols praised the City Federation and the women for what they did in helping him with partial accomplishment of his humanitarian program. And the City Federation president praised the mayor for what he did for the city.

In accepting the "blue and buff" silk flag Mrs. Watson said:

"It is a great inspirational moment. The mayor of Boston has bestowed a high tribute upon us. The flag reveals the blue of the heavens the blue of freedom and we pledged to it our support and the support of this great organization, loyalty to its noble aspirations We all keep its colors bright and unsullied as you have accepted and we feel publicized to accept it during your administration.

"I am president of the Boston City Federation I accept it with heartfelt gratitude and appreciation and I want us to aspire to become 100 point citizens true to the trust and loyal to the ideals that it represents, willing to learn cautious yet courageous."

Mayor Nichols reviewed the four year program of the city's health administration sympathetically referring to the Boston City Hospital as the "most abused city institution in the world."

He described the personally conducted tour by the mayor of the city's newer health units and a luncheon for which he was host to the women

HUB STILL CRITICAL

Mayor Nichols is still labelling the city as the "most critical spot in the world" to be found anywhere. And that his disposition was not one for emphasis but for analysis of the many places are unsatisfied but Boston is nothing whatsoever if not analytical It is not a boom city and its skyline is not being destroyed, but it is a beautiful place and it has as much that is rich in tradition and beauty in its lines as ideas of unsurpassable excellence

"No city in the world handles its institutional work as well as Boston I defy contradiction. We are pre-eminent in the country when it comes to health centers New York and Philadelphia started to copy what we started four or five years ago in the way of health units The Boston City Hospital is the most abused institution in the city, out of the spirit of criticism, it has stood as target for a barrage of arrows. It is not a perfect institution, but no hospital is ever perfect.

"People don't understand that a metropolitan city maintains its public functions and institutions for the public Boston covers to 51 per cent outside the city"

Mayor Nichols was introduced by Mrs William E. Chenery, chairman of the committee which sponsored this Public Health Day. Dr. Charles F. Withington, director of Beth Israel Hospital opened the exercises with a brief message on "Boston's Public Health Service"

BODY CONTROL

Then came Hermann, who insisted that posture made for character

He said:

"Unless we have gained control over our body we can't develop our mentality Physical health is the basis of mental health moral health I am one who believes that a healthy mind creates a healthy body We have to be well powerful to carry it out

"You all know the dangers of high heels you know a great deal about diet, rest, recreation, yet very few have the will power to live up to our knowledge and that kind of will power must be based on body control

The speaker declared that the modern automobile was a destruction to child life. He deplored the lack of recreation places where children could give vent to natural animal spirits.

"Many of you are intending to remodel for Christmas Do you know there isn't a street in Boston that is safe today? On the ground floor entrance problems which I offer for consideration, Boston, the birthplace of the playground for children is the least promising a most unlivable place for children

BABIES MUST CRAWL

"It is an awful record we are piling up in poor posture and poor body mechanics. A few years ago a freshman class at Harvard showed 3 boys only 7½ per cent had proper body mechanics. This unfitness is due to lack of proper activities in babyhood Babies seldom are able to creep those days in modern apartments with hard concrete floors or floors covered by fancy rugs and carpets And it is this proper creeping in childhood which prepares for straight human carriage in adult life. But this keeping of babies in perambulators and in high chairs will never give the proper strength of special muscles.'

He said the "Harvard stoop" was a world-famed characteristic of it. He scorned the lack of old fashioned opportunities in the home such as dusting, cleaning and work incidental to the fireplace

The housework that developed the sturdy ancestors has disappeared. Is it any wonder that we see such funny sights a walking before us these days?

The speaker said it was remarkable how many fine-looking people he sees which he followed up by saying that people with bulging backs were usually successful people.

He described posture types as scrilla and hang-dog, adding that only such types existed. He denounced the wearing of high heels and said that 100 per cent more energy was used than was necessary because of them.

Mrs William J McDonald, director of the sixth district of the State Federation of Women's Clubs bringing the greetings of the district and the official family to the meeting announced that their own conference was to take place January 3 More details to follow later.

This Costume Will Come in Handy on Christmas Day

OF course you are going to have a new dress for the 25th of December! A dress that is gay and youthful A dress that may be donned at noon and yet be important enough for whatever gaiety an informal holiday evening brings

What shall it be? There are, this year of gracefulness, many lovely materials suitable The velvet frock might be considered It is practical, for one thing, because it does not muss and may be packed in a suitcase for the holiday week-end with no ill effect to its trailing skirt.

Lame will be worn by others and certainly this material, with its shimmering lights is the most typical of this festive day

BUT our choice is the gown of ninon or chiffon, because it is soft and fluttering, it is youthful and altogether charming for any age Moreover, a frock of this sheer fabric also will pack well, which must be considered if your Christmas is to be spent away from home

And such a dress is sketched here It has long sleeves, which are very smart for informal evening wear. But it could have no sleeves at all so far as fashion is concerned The fine pleating on the wide berths collar which is repeated in the skirt, is its only trimming, except for the flowers at the neckline And these take note, are again being worn, though conservatively Observe that the skirt, though a trifle irregular, is not exaggerated, so nor is it of extreme length. There are points for future remembrance

SUCH a gown could be chosen in black, or, if you prefer color, and color does seem more appropriate for the occasion, select it in American beauty, in beige or in one of the lovely dahlia shades of Paton

Then with it, if your program includes a tea at some friend's home you must wear a small hat, perhaps a satin or a velvet in the exact shade of the dress or in black. Of course your hat is black—and this, of course, depends upon your coat—choose black shoes

Opera pumps in black suede are the smartest for afternoon wear and when buying them, be of course beg it too will be of black suede, and it may have some ornamentation similar to that on your shoe, or it may be simply plain with perhaps a snake handle

YOUR gloves too, will be suede black or a light beige and they must be long enough to wrinkle at the wrists

For the afternoon wear with such a gown your jewelry will of course be simple. A ring of a single large stone, a very glittering bracelet of rhinestones and crystal or one that is accented with the same stones as in the ring, and perhaps a single strand of pearls, these are absolutely the only ornaments permissible

With this costume in your bag for the Christmas week-end you will be ready for whatever informal event the day will bring and you will be dressed in the lighthearted, charming spirit of the day

GREAT DISPLAY IN QUINCY

Everything is in readiness for the turning on of the lights of "The Tower of a Thousand Candles" which will glow, starting tonight, and continuing on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, Christmas night and New Year's Eve on the new Granite Trust tower in Quincy

The lighting will begin at dusk tonight and will continue until midnight and on New Year's Eve until 1 a m. More than 160 windows in the building will be lighted and more than 1200 candles will be used in the lighting

Tonight at 9 o'clock the Walter Smith ... pipers will share in a carol broadcast from the ninth floor of the tower

PENNROAD NOT TO OPERATE N. E. RAILS

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

The rumor persists, and has even crept into print, that Pennroad Corp. is to operate New England railroads. Pennroad, of which H. H. Lee is president, is a large holder of Boston & Maine and New Haven shares, and is also reported to have extensive interests in Maine Central. The corporation's charter specifically prevents its operating railroads.

It has even been stated in the press that Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is president of Pennroad.

H. H. LEE

Corp. Gen. Atterbury is on Pennroad's board, and that's all. Gen. Atterbury enjoys the distinction of having been the first to list an "outside" railroad on the Boston Stock Exchange.

The chief effects of the Hoover Conference, according to this week's United Business Service report, will doubtless be felt in the fields of public utility construction, and secondly in commercial and industrial building. The very considerable increase in corporate and municipal bond issues over the past two months distinctly indicates a similar increase in this type of construction.

* * *

Furthermore, the easier money and credit conditions which now ably expected to continue, open the door and would seem to make road to a further though moderate expansion of building.

With less than 8 per cent of the world's area and less than 6 per cent of the world's population, the United States has 33 per cent of the world's railway mileage, 200,000 miles. The next highest mileage is Russia, with 47,061. Railroads are better equipped to carry passengers than ever before in their history but passenger traffic owing to the automobile has fallen off 30 per cent since 1920.

Bearish Rumor on Richfield Spiked

Chairman James A. Talbot of Richfield Oil Co. brands as false rumors that New York or any other banks have refused to renew Richfield loans or accept its stock as collateral. "Richfield never was on a sounder basis and will close 1929 as the best year in history with net earnings from $4.50 to $5 a share after extensive write-offs," he said.

POLE SEEKS EXTENSION OF BANKING

By M. L. RAMSAY,
Universal Service.

Washington, Dec. 21—Noting the failure of 5000 small banks since 1920, with the lying loss of $1,500,000,000 deposits, Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole has recommended a sweeping extension of branch banking by national banks.

Submitting his annual report to Congress, Pole urged an amendment to the national banking laws which would authorize branches "within the trade areas" of the cities in which the national banks established the branches are situated.

In general the branches would not be set up beyond federal reserve district boundaries, and a national bank could not establish a branch in another city having a federal reserve bank or a reserve bank branch.

Pole's recommendation was in conflict with that of Secretary Mellon, who in his recent annual report called for a "thorough study" of the whole banking situation, but counselled against "hasty legislation," either promoting or restricting branch and group banking.

Although Mr. Mellon in the comptroller's immediate superior, the latter is responsibl to Congress. Chairman McFadden of the House banking and currency committee is understood to have urged the comptroller to submit his own views.

OIL OUTPUT IN WEEK LOWER

The volume of money turnover during the week ended December 14, as measured by check payments, was lower than in either the previous week or the corresponding period of last year, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce.

Petroleum production during the latest reported week showed a slight decline from the preceding week, but was higher than a year ago. Operations in steel plants were on a lower level than in the corresponding period of last year.

Receipt of wheat and cotton at the principal markets were substantially smaller than in the same period in 1928. Cattle receipts were about the same as a year ago while hog receipts showed a decline from last year. The movement of goods into consumption, as reflected by the volume of carload car loadings for the latest reported week, was lower than a year ago.

The general level of wholesale prices showed practically no change from the previous week but was lower than a year ago. Iron and steel prices were fractionally lower than in the preceding week, showing a decline also from the same week of last year.

Prices for copper showed no change from the previous week but were higher than a year ago. Prices for wheat were higher than a year ago, while cotton prices were lower.

Bank loans and discounts were lower than in the previous week but higher than a year ago. Interest rates on call funds showed no change from the previous week but were substantially lower than a year ago. Time money was unchanged higher than in the preceding week, but were lower than last year.

Bond prices showed a fractional loss from the preceding week and were lower than a year ago. Stock prices showed further recovery during the week, but were still below the level of a year ago. Business failures were more numerous than in either the previous week or the same period of last year.

Gardner-Denver's Business Larger

Chicago, Dec. 21—Consolidated balance sheet of the Gardner-Denver Company as of November 30, 1929, reveals current assets of $1,-246,258 against current liabilities of $36,845, a relative position of approximately 11 to 1. The statement reveals that at present there are outstanding 20,745 shares of preferred stock as compared with 23,-894 at November 30, 1928. Earned surplus increased almost $500,000 over the 1928 figure, while paid-in surplus shows a gain of close to $450,000. A decline in cash holdings of approximately $475,000 is offset by an appreciation in inventory of $525,000. Larger inventories have been necessary to handle the very substantial increase in business this year over 1928.

Dividend on United Corp. Is Reported Near at Hand

New York, Dec. 21—Rumors have been heard in the financial district that dividends may be started in United Corp. before long. It is contended that the increasing receipts from the large holdings of the company in Public Service and United Gas Improvement would be expected to influence action by the directors. However, those in a position to know do not look for early action because earnings are not running at a high rate.

N. Y. Bank Stocks Make 28 P. C. Gains From Their Lows

Current quotations of thirty-seven leading New York city bank stocks, on the average are now selling approximately twenty-eight per cent above the low levels reached during the break of November, says a compilation of Gilbert Eliott & Co. At the high levels of the year to date the average for the thirty-seven issues was 8856 a share, while in November the average dropped to $438 a share. On the recovery following the November break, however, the averages advanced to the current levels of about $506.

Public Financing Figures Lowered

Sales of state and municipal bonds for the first 11 months of 1929 totaled $1,133,498,042, according to the Commercial and Financial Chronicle.

This is a reduction of $131,857,673 as compared with this type of financing for the first 11 months of 1928; a reduction of $98,681,198 as under the corresponding period of 1927; a decline of $86,681,198 as against the same period of 1926, and $100,152,303 below the same months of 1925.

For November, 1929, sales of State and municipal bonds amounted to $94,092,716. This compares with $171,281,282 for the same month last year; with $101,528,838 for the corresponding month of 1927; with $71,074,222 for November, 1926, and $66,826,289 for November, 1925.

CHICAGO GREAT FINANCIAL CENTER

Chicago for the time became a billion dollar security market in the year 1929, according to a summary of Chicago financing during the current year, prepared by the research department of Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers.

This survey shows that total stock and bond issues underwritten by investment houses having their main offices in Chicago during the first 11 months of this year totaled about $1,115,000,000 as compared to the record-breaking volume of approximately $973,000,000 registered in the entire year of 1928.

EXPECT FURTHER GAIN

During the forthcoming year the survey predicts "that the relative importance of Chicago as an underwriting and distributing center will continue to show gains. Furthermore—on account of the character of its industries and its population—it is predicted that Chicago will recover more quickly from the effects of stock market deflation than eastern centers. For this reason, Chicago bankers and investment dealers are optimistic regarding the coming year.

HAS GREAT POWER

"At the same time, it has great industrial power, with manufacturing activities which rival the older centers of the East. In finance, it has great banks and is an important center for security distribution, but the relative importance of its financial markets is such that it is not wholly affected by financial market disturbances.

"Thus, Chicago, on account of the diversity of its wealth, was not affected by agricultural depression as much as other cities which were more wholly dependent upon agriculture; it is not as much affected by industrial depression as eastern industrial centres because its industry is balanced by its agriculture, and it is less affected by financial disturbances than is New York."

NEW DIVIDENDS ARE ORDERED

Directors of the Federal Screw Works today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the capital stock payable Dec. 30 to stock holders of record Dec. 20.

United Merchants & Manufacturers, Inc., declare dregular quarterly dividends of $1.50 each on the 6 per cent preferred and the 6 per cent convertible preferred "A" stocks, both payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 19.

United Gas Improvement Co. declared quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common, placing the stock on a $1.20 annual basis, against $1 previously paid. Dividend is payable March 31 to stock of record Feb. 28.

E. W. Bliss Co. declared regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents on common, $1 on first preferred, 87½ cents on second preferred Class A and $1.75 on second preferred Class B. Company states there is a good volume of orders on its books.

Auto Demand Is Up in Steel Orders

Youngstown, O., Dec. 21—December business in flat-rolled steels from the automobile business industry is in somewhat larger volume than in November. Stamping plants are likewise taking heavier tonnages of sheets and are now issuing broader inquiries to estimate automobile requirements.

Most companies report acceleration in new business which they expect to be speeded up further after the holiday season. In sheets prices are moderately disturbed. Black sheets command 2.75 cents a pound with concessions. Galvanized sheets have been marked down $2 a ton to 3.40 cents.

United Gas Goes on a $1.20 Basis

New York, Dec. 20—United Gas Improvement Company has placed its common stock on a $1.20 annual basis, declaring a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, payable March 31 to stock of record Feb. 28. The stock has paid $1 annually.

BOND MARKET IS STEADY

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—The bond market held steady today in a dull two-hour trading session. Transactions were of a minor nature reflecting the pre-holiday lagarthy and price changes ruled small.

United States government Liberties and Treasury certificates were firm and fairly active. Convertibles, reversing the movement of yesterday, made purogress toward recovery of Friday's declines, but generally indicated a lack of interest.

There was little inquiry for high grade bonds, but offerings were also light and the spread between bids and offered prices was slight. A few semi-speculative issues traded at declines on minor selling, in the rail group St. Paul adjustment income 5s lost a point.

New financing scheduled for next week shows a sharp reduction over this week's total of $269,569,000, the largest of the year, but the decrease is due to the holiday. Municipal offerings will drop to about $11,000,000 as compared with $73,000,000 in the current week.

NEW MERGER IN STEEL WORLD

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. is negotiating for the purchase of the Inland Steel Co., Chicago, with a view of purchasing the company, according to James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown company.

Mr. Campbell has been a substantial increase in the production schedules of tin plate mills in the Youngstown district, report from the area today state, due to the placement of first half of 1930 business. Leading mills are operating at 80 per cent of rated capacity against 60 per cent a few weeks ago.

World production of copper, including the output from Africa, for the month totaled 170,850 short tons, compared with 175,540 in October, and 183,813 in November, 1928, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports.

American Pastor Quits British Pulpit

10 P. C. Bonus Is Given Workers

President Edward J. Noble of Life Savers, Inc., states the company is giving a bonus of up to 10 per cent of annual salaries to its employes. He also said the present upward trend of sales points to a satisfactory volume of business during 1930.

Stock Dividend

CURB MARKET BEARS RUSH TO COVER

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

Leading shares generally closed with net gains of around two points. Trading continued rather dull. Further selling appeared in spots during the early trading, and a little weekend profit-taking toward the close subdued most of the gains.

Utilities led the upturn in sympathy with the revival of bullish activity in this group on the big board. American and Foreign Power warrants closed more than four points higher, and such shares as Electric Bond and Share, Allied Power, American Gas, Middle West, and United Light A gained about two points each. Hydro Electric securities was a soft spot, closing fractionally lower.

A feature of the day's activity was a transaction of 31,000 shares of Bellanca Aircraft at 4¾, a new high for the year. The stock has been comparatively inactive of late. It sold earlier in the year as high as 23, and touched 5 in the November break. The transaction represented more than one-fourth of th roustanding capital stock. Aviation shares generally continued sluggish, with Fokker easing a little.

Such miscellaneous shares as Newmont Mining, Gulf Oil, Lehman Corp., Transamerica, Goldman Sachs, Cities Service and Otis Elevator new gained a point or two.

Fox Theaters A touched a new low at 5¾, rebounded to 6¾, and closed at 5⅝. Pennroad, which has been recently establishing new lows, rallied a point.

DIVIDEND TO BE PASSED

While Thursday's sale of 250 shares of Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway common at a new low price of $6 a share undoubtedly was forced, the recording of a loss for tax purposes, the current natural market of $9 a share plainly suggests that the $1.50 annual dividend is in jeopardy, says the Boston Curb Exchange Bulletin. From present indications the road will have earned this year around $1.25 per $50 share on the $6,254 shares of common, after preferred and adjustment dividends. Having suddenly turned the dividend over to being in good cash position, with no maturities until 1948, it is obvious that if the dividend is passed it will reflect other continuing factors.

For one thing the road plans considerable extension of its motor vehicle service. The $127,000 represented by the $1.50 common dividend would go a long way towards financing this necessary bus investment.

Thus is is anticipated that at next Monday's meeting of Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway trustees it will be deemed advisable to pass the common dividend.

Wins Seat After 17 Years of Service

New York, Dec. 21—Seventeen years of continuous service was rewarded when John Hyer, office manager for Auerbach, Pollack & Richardson, was proposed for membership in the New York Stock Exchange and admitted to general partnership in the firm, effective January 1. American Financial News

COUSINS TELLS OF PREFERRED VALUATIONS

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, Dec. 21—Five out of six of the stock market records set for the whole year 1929 on the first day this week were those of high prices, financially strong American industrial corporations. Among the issues involved were Atchison Railroad preferred at 310, Allied Chemical preferred at 180, Johns-Manville preferred at 200, Texas & Gulf preferred at 100, Union Pacific preferred at 230, Westinghouse preferred at 170 and Youngstown Sheet & Tube preferred at 200, all per cent of par, with a yield of 4 per cent or less.

Investment quality issues, favored stocks at the time, were responding to the normal development in the financial situation, all of them pointing unmistakably to the ample recovery of corporate stock prices and the industries they represent. These developments are:

1—Abundance of investment funds available for employment in attractive securities.

3—Progress in the market on liquidation process and preparatory steps of which are recovery first in bonds, second in preferred stocks and finally in the rank and file of common stocks.

The past week or three months have witnessed a radical change in the attitude of investors and speculators toward corporation bonds, stocks and interest rates paid on marginal speculative accounts. It was strange enough that investors were willing to accept a 2 per cent yield or even less than that on their own money, but to reach the height of absurdity when they borrowed at 10 per cent to speculate on that basis.

This was the phase of our speculative boom which so greatly mystified the staid and conservative Englishmen and finally influenced them to withdraw a large amount from our markets. Borrowing at 10 per cent to buy stocks paying 2 per cent or less appeared then, and to be the height of absurdity and to herald the beginning of the end of liquidation in security prices as we know.

Apparently they ended the collapse of March 26 a few days sooner than many astute Americans, and it is certain that the withdrawal of hundreds of millions of dollars of British money accelerated the downward movement.

Investors, as professed, should must exercise the same measure of caution in making selections as in choosing other classes of investment, but well-chosen preferred issues of effectively operated and financially strong industrial corporations offer as attractive a form of employment for surplus funds of individuals and financial institutions as anything before the investing public.

In contrast to the wide plunge of the best ranking common stocks in the October and November bear market, high grade preferred stocks moved through a narrow range of prices and at no time exhibited the panicky market situation revealed by common stocks. The following comparisons of high and low prices of preferred stocks for the year tell the story plainly and emphatically:

Stock	1929 H	1929 L	N C
American Can	145	133	12 pts.
American Smelting	130	118	12 pts.
Baltimore and Ohio	81	75	6 pts.
Jones and Laughlin	122	117	5 pts.
Nickel Plate	100	96	4 pts.
Public Service Nj	108	98	10 pts.
U. S. Steel	144	135	9 pts.

A spread of 5 points for the year in which the greatest market catastrophe in financial history took place, as in the case of Jones and Laughlin preferred stock; 6 points in Atchison and Baltimore and Ohio and 9 points in U. S. Steel preferred is a remarkable testimony to the stability of the preferred stocks of the strong and ably handled American Corporations.

It also marks another strong contrast between the status of preferred and common stocks in investment portfolios. The preferred stocks are for the most part tucked away in vaults and strong boxes and therefore not subject to liquidation at any and every whim of investors.

They make up but an insufficient part of the average investors' margin account and therefore are not closed-out by failure of the speculators to furnish more margin. Common stocks which have the ground swept from beneath them by the inability of speculators to pay for their commitments or to furnish ample margin, are made to appear much weaker than they really are.

A 5½ per cent yield on a high grade preferred stock, with an occasional opportunity for a profitable "switch" offers excellent employment for surplus funds at a time when the stock market as a whole is unable to make up its own mind.

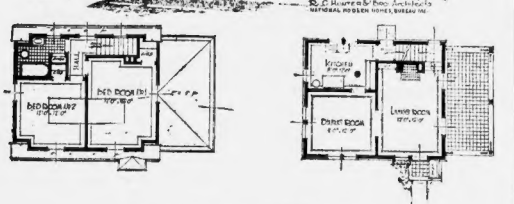
Roomy Small Home at Cost of $5000



INEXPENSIVE, CHARMING SMALL HOUSE
By National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc.

HERE is a charming little house, A-51, that can be built for about $5000 and one that will provide a real home which is within the means of almost everyone.

The architects have worked out a simple and economical plan and have combined with it an attractive exterior. Most houses of this very modest size look like "packing boxes" for want of proper roof treatment. This little cottage will hold its own among the most pretentious.

As one enters the front door the house appears large; the fireplace, stairs and bookcase all count in the scheme, yet the arrangement is most economical.

The two bedrooms are much larger than one would expect to find. They have cross-ventilation and good closets. The bath is well arranged and there is not an inch of waste space. Note that the only hall in the entire house (halls are of little value as living spaces) is the very small pass at the second floor. This is what makes the house a big one in everything but cost.

The foundation is of concrete and the upper walls are frame finished with wide white shingles. The house has steam heat, modern plumbing and electric wiring.

COMPLETE working plans and specifications of the house illustrated above may be obtained for a nominal cost from the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc. Any technical questions regarding this house will be answered without cost or obligation. Address the National Modern Homes Bureau, Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Refer to house A-51.

Urge Smokeless City for Tercentenary

Smokeless Boston during the coming tercentenary is the plan of a committee organized by Dr. L. Vernon Briggs. The smoke situation was described as "intolerable" and one which menaced the life and health of the community, at a meeting of the group.

It was asserted that 25 to 40 per cent of the normal daylight was often absorbed by the dense smoke pall which hangs over the city and its environs.

Dr. Briggs expressed the hope of having the co-operation of everybody in the community to make Boston a cleaner city in 1930.

"By lessening the smoke nuisance we will materially aid in improving the health of the community and making a tremendous economic saving," he said.

Henry C. Atwill, chairman of the department of public utilities, suggested a bill in the Legislature similar to the one filed by his department last year, which provides more stringent regulations and enforcement in a right law as to the emitting of quantities of smoke.

Representing Henry I. Harriman, chamber of commerce head, James J. Walsh pointed out the organization was whole-heartedly with anyone who would stand to make the city cleaner and healthier.

Dr. George H. Bigelow, ex-commissioner of public health appeared in favor of a direct appeal to the industries affected requesting them as a matter of interest and pride in the community to act in the matter in their own behalf.

Prof. Edward C. Miller, M. I. T., engineering expert, told the committee that in view of present-day scientific accomplishments it was an easy matter to control smoke emittance. This view was backed by Prof. C. Harold Berry, head of the department of mechanical engineering at Harvard, who had an active part in ridding Detroit of its smoke nuisance.

Ex-President of France Dies at 91

Montelimar, France, Dec. 21—Emile Loubet, ex-President of France, is dead at the age of 91 years. The statesman was conscious to the last.

Loubet was President of France during a period when the entente cordiale between France and Great Britain was negotiated. When President Faure died suddenly in 1899, the late Georges Clemenceau picked Loubet as his candidate for the presidency at the 11th hour, and Loubet's election was assured. He made no brilliant record as president, but when he left office France was on friendly terms with all the world except Germany.

The Fine Points in Homes of Today

By BETTY BONNELL

THE time has passed when the matter of floor covering was considered as a problem in itself. Today, the modern housewife thinks of the floor as part of the decorative scheme of the entire room.

In decorating the home, one of the greatest single elements brought into play is the matter of color. Here one can find ample opportunity to express good taste.

Each room is a separate problem, of course, but not nearly so difficult as you think. If you approach it from "the bottom up," which naturally means starting with the flooring, I can't think of any greater fun than figuring out what designs and color schemes to select for each floor, with the wealth of entrancing patterns constantly being brought out by the country's linoleum makers.

Betty Bonnell

For instance, the breakfast room where you depend so much on color to bring charm and brightness into the room where the day really begins. One of the loveliest linoleum patterns I've seen is made up of six-inch embossed squares in varying shades of red which create a vermilion tone ideal for a breakfast room. Walls should then be a blue-green and the ceiling preferably finished in cream-yellow.

Then there's that sun-room which is really the most "out-of-doors" spot in the home. A delightful base for this room can be created with a linoleum pattern that offers a soft blending of four colorings, together with cement mortar lines and crevices that create a clever broken stone effect. It is as if the green walk were brought right into the room. And there are endless color schemes in the furniture, walls, ceilings and trim to harmonize with this pattern.

As a matter of fact, there isn't a room in the house where fascinating designs in linoleum flooring cannot create a most tasteful effect. Simply follow the rule of Nature, that age-old Interior Decorator who wisely puts darkest colors closest to the ground.

Plan each room so that the darkest shades are in the linoleum and the lightest are in the ceilings. Remember that there are no cut-and-dried rules to follow.

One of the best methods I know of, is to get small samples of the floor pattern, wall and ceiling colors and put them together right before your eye. In this way you can know in advance just what the room will look like and how each color in the arrangement will harmonize or balance with the others.

Property Sold at Long Wharf

Sophie B. Anderson has sold to the proprietors of Boston Pier or The Long Wharf Co. the property at 6 and 7 Long Wharf, comprising a four-story building and 990 sq. ft. of land. The property is assessed for $12,900.

C. W. Whittier & Bro. were brokers in the transaction.

ODD BOILDING IS PLANNED

A transaction involving vacant land on Memorial drive, Cambridge, was announced by Arthur F. Pearce, Jr., in the purchase by Frederick Brothers' Realty Trust, of 45,000 sq. ft. of land from Charles E. Gordon and Henry T. Moulton. This land adjoins property recently acquired by Hoffman the Florist through the same office.

It is the intention of Frederick Brothers to erect a large building in the shape of a bean pot, an innovation in Greater Boston. They will conduct a dining room featuring their products.

The sellers were represented by Arthur F. Pearce, Jr., and the purchasers by Robert J. W. Stone.

Landlords of 7500 Suites Organized

Ownership of more than 7500 apartments is announced to be represented in the membership of the newly formed Greater Boston Apartment Owners Association. The purpose of the organization is to promote efficiency in management of properties by exchange of information regarding tenants and other matters.

Reports on tenants will be filed with the association, giving the history of tenants' occupancy of suites and thus it is hoped to keep a check on persons who attempt to evade payment of rent.

LITERATURE on standard materials and products used in the construction of the modern homes will be sent to you if you will check the subjects that interest you and mail to the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.
